

Chiang Asks For Morale Boost In US

Pronouncement Expected
Soon In Washington

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Nov. 17 (P)—Diplomatic authorities speculated today that the American government soon may issue a pronouncement designed to boost the morale of China's anti-Communist forces.

President Truman and the State department have before them a plea from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for a policy declaration reaffirming support of Chiang's Nationalist government.

Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett scheduled a new conference for noon (EST) today but it was uncertain beforehand whether he would discuss this aspect of the China situation.

Most informed officials considered it more likely that any broad policy declaration would have to await the review of international affairs with Mr. Truman and Secretary of State Marshall will hold at the White House next Monday.

Complaint Unfounded
They also are expected to come the grips with the major issue of how far the United States can and should go in backing up its China policies with dollars, arms and civilian goods.

Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo told a reporter late yesterday that he had transmitted to the State department Chiang's desire for an American policy statement.

What is wanted, Koo said, is an expression of "sympathy, solidarity and support" to help raise the morale of Nationalist China, which in recent weeks has suffered grave defeats at the hands of the Communists.

Koo said his government is at a loss to know what United States policy really is. Thus there was some tendency among officials here to regard Koo's comments as implying a belief that the United States is not now following a policy friendly to the Nanking government.

Authorities concerned over this point declared that any such implication is unjustified, since the United States actually is spending $400,000,000 for military and civilian aid to Nationalist China.

Mrs. Blixt is the daughter of Mr. Hansen. The four-month-old twins died in the fire that seriously injured Mr. Hansen's aged father, Martin, and burned Ennert in his rescue efforts.

Smog Victims Given Oceanside Vacation

Wilmington Host To 50
From Donora, Pa.

Wilmington, N. C., Nov. 17 (AP)—This coastal city was brushing off its welcome mat today for 50 survivors of the death-dealing smog that covered Donora, Pa., Oct. 30.

The Pennsylvanians will fly here tomorrow for a week's vacation. They'll be guests of the Wilmington and Wrightsville Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce which are underwriting all expenses, including the airline fares.

The vacationers will be given a big welcome by Wilmington civic officials when they arrive. After that, they'll settle down in cottages at nearby Wrightsville Beach.

Far removed from the fatal mixture of fog and smoke that killed 20 of their fellow townspeople, they'll breathe in brisk ocean breezes as they fish, boat ride, tour nearby plantations and attend oyster roasts.

At Donora last night, Miss Elizabeth Ostrander, secretary of the Donora board of health, said that those who suffered most will make the trip.

Steven Kosteier, about 60, expressed the happy anticipation of the group.

"It's wonderful—it's wonderful. Why, I've never been in an airplane before. Just think of that! And now, by golly, I'm going to North Carolina. It's just wonderful."

Jackson Residents Killed Enroute To Resort In Florida

Huntsville, Ala., Nov. 17 (AP)—Two Jackson, Mich., residents, enroute to spend the winter in Florida, were killed and a third seriously injured in a car-truck collision near here yesterday.

The dead were: Zimri J. Davis, 85, retired truck gardener and onetime "melon king of Michigan," and his niece Mrs. Phyllis Welch Young, 38.

Davis' 81-year-old wife was taken to the Huntsville hospital in a serious condition. The trio left Jackson Sunday for Eustis, Fla., where Davis planned to spend his 45th consecutive winter.

Winds Cause Heavy Damage In Detroit

Detroit, Nov. 17 (AP)—High winds caused widespread damage in Detroit last night and early today.

The U. S. weather bureau reported that gusts reached a velocity of 70 miles an hour. A scaffolding on a five-story downtown building collapsed, and a police roped off the vicinity of a storage building, recently damaged by fire, when the walls threatened to fall in.

LAKE WATER FAVORED

Grand Haven, (P)—F. J. Faust, chief of the division of water supply of the state health department, and an engineering expert have advised officials here to follow an original plan for getting the city's water from Lake Michigan. The city had been considering a plan of boosting the water supply through wells.

Mother Of 2 Killed Near Ensign, Boy, 14, Takes Her For Deer

Mrs. A. E. Simpson, 31, wife of Paul Simpson, 1314 Shelby Mount Morris, Mich., was shot and killed by Dick Landmesser, 14, son of Andy Landmesser, Route 2, Newport, Mich., in Ensign township Tuesday afternoon at 5:40 o'clock.

It was Delta county's first hunting fatality of the season. Mrs. Simpson at the time she was shot was dragging a small evergreen tree which had been dug from the ground with the roots intact, toward the Simpson camp about 100 feet away.

The youth, deer hunting for his first time, was at the edge of the clearing and said that against a light spot in the sky the woman dragging the tree looked like a buck deer. He said he watched and believed he saw a deer with horns take a few steps and stop, then take a few more and stop. It was then that he sighted on the light spot in the sky, lowered his sights until he was sighted where he thought the body of the animal was, and pulled the trigger.

School Aid Measure Studied In Lansing

Extension Of County Unit
System Proposed

Lansing, Nov. 17 (AP)—The machinery for drafting a school aid bill to be submitted to the new legislature in January was in motion today.

A citizens' committee, appointed by Governor Sigler to study state school problems, yesterday appointed a sub-committee to draft a proposed bill to be presented to the full committee Dec. 16 and 17 at its next meeting.

The committee yesterday voted to recommend that the legislature set up an eight-member state school authority which would appoint the state superintendent of public instruction. The superintendent presently is elected every two years at the spring election.

A recommendation was also made that the present township school district and rural agricultural school district acts be replaced by a proposed community school district act. The new act would make it easier for school districts to be organized by the voters to include whole communities and to split or consolidate present districts.

The extension of the county unit act to all counties in the state was also proposed by the committee. The act, which permits setting up county boards of education to coordinate schools of the county, now extends to 54 of the 83 counties.

'Flaming Redhead' Held For Lewdness

New York, Nov. 17 (P)—Winnie Garrett, nightclub dancer, known as the "flaming redhead," was arrested early today on a charge of presenting a "lewd and indecent performance."

Miss Garrett was picked up at the Club Ha-Ha, where she was featured in a floor show. She gave her age as 25.

At police headquarters, an officer, noting something in Miss Garrett's hand, asked, "What's that—a necktie."

That's my costume," she said.

FATHER FINED $100

Andy Landmesser, father of Dick Landmesser, was fined $100 and $9.50 costs by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette this morning on a charge of permitting his minor son to hunt deer unaccompanied by a parent or guardian. A petition for hearing in the case of the youth has been presented to Probate Judge Wm. Miller and the hearing is scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

He heard a cry for help and rushed to the woman, a distance of approximately 225 feet. Her husband had reached her from the camp first and he told the youth to go for aid.

At the time of the shooting the boy was unaccompanied by an adult. Earlier in the day he had gone out hunting with other members of the party, but his

Reds Routed East Of Suchow, Chinese Government Claims

By HAROLD K. MILKS
Nanking, Nov. 17 (P)—The government asserted today 90,000 casualties were inflicted on Reds routed east of Suchow, gateway to Nanking.

The official and pro-government reports buoyed the capital. But skeptics, mindful of other government claims at Tsingtao, Chinsien and Mukden just before they fell to the Reds, waited for more information.

These points, however, appeared true on the basis of information here:

1. The Chinese air force blunted Red attacks across the open country east of Suchow, 200 miles northwest of the capital.
2. Gen. Huang Po-Tao's Seventh Army group, which was isolated east of Suchow, lost more than half of its full strength of four armies. It survived repeated attacks and still is in the field. Its ability to take and give punishment heartened other government units.
3. The executive Yuan ordered martial law extended to Tsingtao, site of the American naval base in the Western Pacific. The order goes now to President Chiang Kai-shek for implementation. The action followed the application of martial law to Nanking, Shanghai and Suchow.

Veto Blocks Peace Move In Cold War

Lift Berlin Blockade First,
U. S. Demands

BY FRANCIS W. CARPENTER

Paris, Nov. 17 (P)—The United States, Britain and France told top U. N. officials formally today they want the Berlin dispute with Russia left in the hands of the Security Council to be dealt with as a threat to peace.

The three powers reaffirmed their decision against negotiating with Russia on Berlin while the Soviet blockade of the western sectors continues. These were the two main points of the west's argument.

The net result of the latest flurry of excitement in the United Nations was this: The east and west have once more stated their positions and each has once again declined to budge.

Stalemate Again

The western powers formalized their stand in replies to the appeal by H. V. Evatt, the assembly president, and Trygve Lie, the U. N. secretary-general, who asked the four powers to compose their differences for the good of world peace.

Russia already has replied. She insists, as before, that the Berlin question is part of the all-German question and must be discussed by the council of foreign ministers.

The stalemate was on again. The United States once again said it would not negotiate the issue of Berlin under the threat implicit in the Russian blockade.

Britain said the Russian veto of a Berlin solution offered by the so-called neutrals of the security council stood in the way of progress toward a settlement. That proposal had called for lifting of the blockade, to be followed immediately by a four-power conference.

The British also replied to the (Continued on page 8)

Three Bandits Pose As Police But Can't Find Detroit Jewels

Detroit, Nov. 17 (AP)—Three bandits who posed as policemen invaded the home of a department store executive Tuesday night and terrorized the servants in a vain hunt for hidden jewels.

The three gained admittance to the home of Israel Davidson by telling his maid, Lucy Logan, that they were officers. Davidson is president of the Federal department store chain.

They threatened Miss Logan and the butler, Charles Moss, the two told police, but did not harm them. After ransacking the house in vain, the men departed without taking anything of value.

Davidson and his wife were not home at the time.

Princess and Son In Fine Condition

London, Nov. 17 (P)—Princess Elizabeth spent an excellent night and she and her son "continue to make good progress," her doctors reported today.

After visiting the Princess, who gave birth to a seven pound, six ounce Prince Sunday night, physicians Sir William Gilliat and Sir John Weir made a personal report to the queen.

Truman Goes Slow In Cabinet Shakeup

BY ERNEST B. VACCARO

Key West, Fla., Nov. 17 (P)—President Truman's delay in the reorganization of his administration was attributed by close associates today to concern about picking replacements for those who are to go.

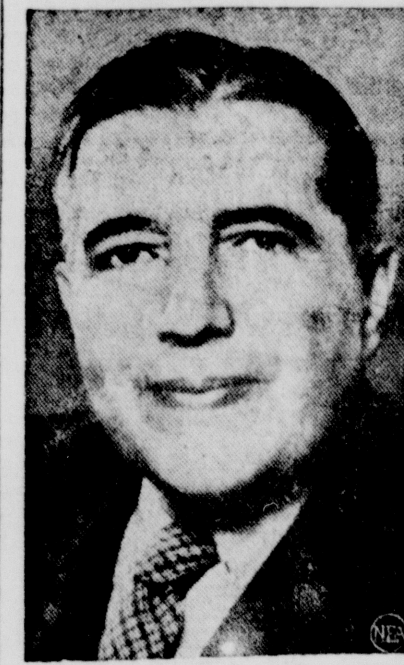

These sources, unquotable by name, said the president is in no hurry to shake up his cabinet until he completes selection of a team to carry on during the next four years.

As he told a news conference here yesterday, everybody has been shuffling the cabinet around but the president, Mr. Truman added that he would act at the proper time.

His major problem will be to pick a new Secretary of Defense to replace James V. Forrestal and a man to succeed Robert B. Lovett when the latter steps out as Undersecretary of State.

No decision has been made in either case.

Mr. Truman, these close advisors said, will try to persuade

PLANS FOR WEST—Declaring that developing the water resources of the West to their fullest extent is "an American-size problem," Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Straus has sent to Congress an American-size program for development of land and water resources in 17 semi-arid western states. The seven-year program, to be considered by the 81st Congress, calls for expenditures of $4,000,000,000 to $7,000,000,000 on some 250 reclamation projects.

Results Of Election Bring Glee To CIO

Communists Out; Labor
Law Outlook Bright

BY MAX HALL

Portland, Ore., Nov. 17 (P)—The CIO executive board met here today, grinning like a discharged worker who has just been reinstated with 12 months' back pay.

Most of the 51 board members are tickled over the election results, the outlook for labor legislation in the new Congress, and the steady decline of the Communists in the CIO.

Big, tough Joe Curran, president of the National Maritime union, barged into town and, chatting with a reporter, said of the Communists:

"The election set them right back on their heels. You might say they are pretty busy regrouping forces to retreat some more."

The CIO's left wing supported Henry Wallace for president. Curran is one of those who is seeking to revoke the charter of the left-wing New York City CIO council. The New York council fight is perhaps the hottest issue before the executive board. This issue could come up today, but there were strong reports that it would be postponed until Friday or Saturday.

The annual CIO convention will open Monday. Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, who will probably make a convention speech or two against the Communists, flew into town late last night, accompanied by two bodyguards and a hospital technician who is giving daily treatments to his injured arm.

Reuther was shot in his Detroit kitchen last April 20.

Windstorm Sweeps Across Five States

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—A wind and rain storm which swept over five Midwest states yesterday, causing some property damage, moved north-eastward across the Great Lakes region today.

Rain fell today from the middle Atlantic states southward to Georgia. Strong winds were reported in some parts of the lakes region during the night, with gusts of more than 70 miles per hour. Some light snow fell in Michigan.

The storm struck yesterday over parts of Iowa, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin and Missouri.

Secretary of State Marshall to remain on the job when the latter meets with him at the White House Monday for a full-scale review of the delicate international situation.

Mr. Truman is flying back to Washington Sunday to bring an end to his two weeks post-campaign vacation at the Naval submarine base here.

Representative Sam Rayburn, slated to be Speaker of the House again when Congress meets in January, will join him here Thursday. Other members of the Democratic high command already have conferred with the Chief Executive at his quarters in the commandant's house.

Mr. Truman said he will seek repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and enactment of legislation proposed in the Democratic platform and in the 21-point domestic program he first submitted to Congress Sept. 6, 1945.

The platform includes his Civil Rights proposals which drew southern fire during the campaign.

New Governor Neck Deep In Lansing Task

Lansing, Nov. 16 (P)—Gov-elect Williams is neck deep in preparations for his administration.

At a capitol press conference yesterday, Williams disclosed he is setting private committees to work on an 11-point legislative program, will turn to appointments and patronage as soon as the committees are busy, and then will seek a liaison with the Republican-dominated legislature which he must meet soon after Jan. 1.

Stronger laws against stream pollution and a return to the commission control of Michigan's prison system which Gov. Sigler junked have been given major places on the legislative program, Williams disclosed.

No Place For Joe
He said he would propose to put the state corrections department under a bi-partisan commission named by the governor, the system which Sigler smashed. The commission should appoint the corrections director, Williams said.

He disclosed there probably "is no place" in his administration for Joseph W. Sanford, state corrections director whom Sigler appointed after ripping apart the state's so-called "model" corrections system. He refused to say definitely, however, that changing circumstances might not keep Sanford on the job.

Williams said also that he planned to replace State Controller John A. Perkins, whom Sigler named, but he expressed hope that Perkins would remain on the job for a while "because I know that in the minds of the legislature he has done a competent job."

The tall, husky, 37-year-old new chief executive met for several hours with the dean of the Republican House, 67-year-old Rep. John P. Espie, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

Williams said Espie told him he had worked with 13 governors and would work with him "for the best interest of the state."

Franco In Doghouse
The appointment of a staff and key officials has not been settled, Williams said, but he made it clear State Democratic Chairman John R. Franco will have no voice in patronage matters.

The governor-elect reported tentative plans to hold his inaugural ball at Michigan State college's auditorium. He talked to President John A. Hannah of the college yesterday.

Williams' other major legislative proposals, discussed in his campaign, include: Housing and rent controls, repeal of "crippling" amendments to the Unemployment Compensation Law and more "adequate" benefits, modernization of workmen's compensation and factory inspections, help for schools, Civil Rights and fair employment practice laws, better roads, assistance to veterans, repeal of the so-called old age assistance property "lien" and greater benefits, more governmental coordination and stimulation of Michigan agricultural markets.

He said he was not ready to disclose details of the program yet.

Countess Takes Rap For Poker Partner

Bad Check Lands Woman
In Nevada Lockup

Virginia City, Nev., Nov. 17 (AP)—A bejeweled, smartly dressed lady gambler known as "The Countess" had the long-distance lines humming today for funds to cover a check she wrote to spring her poker-playing partner from jail.

District Attorney Robert Berry said the "countess," Miss Henry C. A. Krasnodebsky of Philadelphia, can leave the pokey as soon as she makes good the $2,200 check which freed Burdette Beveridge, 39, of Vancouver, Wash.

Berry said she had made telephone calls to New York, Beverly Hills and Mexico City "but so far she hasn't raised a nickel."

The "countess," who told authorities she comes from a wealthy family, arrived with Beveridge early last week and started playing highstakes poker in a main street bar.

She did most of the playing, and Beveridge wrote checks covering her losses. The game went on for three or four days.

Then, on the complaint of Len Haffey, who ran the game, Beveridge was jailed on a charge of writing fictitious checks.

The "countess" offered to cover Beveridge's checks with one of her own. Haffey and the authorities agreed to this, and charges against Beveridge were dismissed. He left town.

But then Miss Krasnodebsky's $2,200 check also proved uncashable, Berry said. So the "countess" took Beveridge's place in the county jail.

Black Bear Bagged, Weights 540 Pounds

Kalkaska, Nov. 17 (P)—Milton Fahling, of Conklin, is credited here with bagging the largest black bear ever shot in Kalkaska county—a monster that dressed out yesterday at 540 pounds.

The 21-year-old hunter, who said he was "pretty excited" about his first bear, reported the bruin was dropped with one shot. The bear is believed one of the largest ever taken in the state.

Japanese Burning Manhole Covers

Nagoya, Japan, Nov. 17 (P)—Japanese won't be surprised if a few people drop out of sight around here these dark nights.

People are lifting Nagoya's wooden manhole covers for scarce firewood. The army yanked the old metal ones for scrap during the war.

Authorities put down cement covers where possible, but gaping holes are common every morning as the old wooden covers disappear.

Food Prices Lower, But Not Living Costs

Increases Balance Cuts
On Consumer Goods

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (P)—Mrs. housewife can count on a drop in food prices, but she shouldn't expect the cost of living to go down.

A man who ought to know, Ewan Clague, Commissioner of the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the food price fall will be balanced by increases in items in heavy demand.

Among these he listed rents, steel, automobiles and Marshall plan exports.

Clague spoke yesterday at a conference arranged by the Industrial Council of the Chamber of Commerce.

"At present," he told 250 business executives, "our consumer prices are, if anything, coming down."

"At the same time," Clague added, "there is a tremendous upward pressure starting in commodities where there still exists a heavy postwar demand."

Clague figured that "the general economic outlook appears very favorable," adding that industrial employment is at an all-time high with 46,000,000 holding jobs, a gain of 3,000,000 since the end of the war.

He warned, however, that shortages in the supply of skilled labor "will very likely occur on a greater scale than has been true since the war years, and many employers in some areas will find themselves badly pinched for labor."

Broken Leg Welded For Munising Hunter

Munising, Mich., Nov. 17 (P)—The enthusiasm of Michigan's current deer hunt season was demonstrated when an unidentified man stopped at a factory here to have a broken knee hinge on his wooden leg welded.

As soon as the job was done, he continued his quest for a deer.

Gales Wreck Three Ships, Seven Killed

Storm On Pacific Coast
Subsiding Today

Seattle, Nov. 17 (P)—A coastal storm was gradually subsiding today after causing seven deaths and wrecking three vessels.

Three men were lost when the tug St. Clair smashed onto rocks near Port San Juan, B. C. Five others reached shore in a lifeboat. Two more men were missing from the tug Ruby Eight, which sank in Puget Sound.

Another man died of a heart attack as the Coast Guard was attempting to rescue him and 10 others from the sinking tug Neptune off the Columbia river mouth.

The 10 men were saved but the one man died after falling into the sea.

The seventh victim was a woman lost overboard from the ferry Princess Victoria between Vancouver and Victoria, B. C.

Two vessels, a lightship which lost its anchor and a freighter with 16 aboard which broke loose from a towing tug, were still occupying the attention of the Coast Guard today.

The lightship was heading for the protection of the Strait of Juan De Fuca bordering the northern coast of Washington but could make only slow progress. Its departure left the Swiftsure Banks without a warning light.

Five Plumbing And Heating Firms Get Notices Of Strike

Notice of their employees' intention to strike within 30 days unless their demands for an agreement are met was received today by five Escanaba plumbing and heating firms.

The strike notices were signed by Arnold Alsten of Escanaba, business representative of the Teamsters and Chauffeurs union. Alsten informed the firms that the Teamsters and Chauffeurs union was representing their employees in the dispute. The notice pointed out that further discussion was hoped for and that cooperation was sought.

A spokesman for one of the five firms on whom notice of strike had been served said the first notice was received Nov. 5. He said the union is seeking a wage scale of $2 an hour for plumbers and furnacemen, $1.50 an hour for helpers, time and a half in excess of 40 hours a week, double time from Saturday noon to Monday morning, and a guaranteed 44-hour work week. Two weeks vacation and two weeks sick leave, with pay, also is requested by the union.

Four Held in Theft Of Copper Cable At Calumet and Hecla

Calumet, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—Four men were held here today on charges that they snipped up and tried to sell 24,000 feet of copper cable owned by the Calumet & Hecla Consolidated Copper Co.

The wire was strung on poles to two abandoned workings of the mine in the Keweenaw Peninsula. Authorities said the 17,000 pounds of wire had a replacement value of $10,000 but was worth only about $3,000 to $4,000 as junk.

Awaiting arraignment on larceny charges are Henry Trzcinski, 52, of Copper City, and Kenneth Resman, 22, and Jack Long, 30, of Laurium, Gordon Sundberg of Copper City, is accused of buying stolen property.

A deer hunter reported seeing the men snipping the cable into 100-foot lengths along an abandoned railroad track.

Anti-Red Official In Berlin Ordered Ousted By Soviets

Berlin, Nov. 17 (AP)—The Russians have ordered the removal of anti-Communist Gustav Klingenhoefer as head of the Berlin city government's economic department, the Soviet sponsored news agency ADN said today. The Russians, in a letter to acting Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg, accused Klingenhoefer, a Socialist, of disorganizing the work in his department.

Col. Alexander Jelissarov, acting Soviet commandant in Berlin, charged in the letter that Klingenhoefer had virtually abandoned his post by dividing the department—one for the Soviet-occupied sector of Berlin and the other for the western sector.

ADN said Jelissarov appointed Emil Dusiska, deputy chief of the economic department, to succeed Klingenhoefer. Dusiska is regarded as pro-Communist. The latest Russian action brought the number of split executive departments in the city government to five.

Business Attitude On Parking Meters Is Being Surveyed

Petitions asking for the installation of parking meters in Escanaba are being circulated in the business section of the city by Neil Smith, Milwaukee, salesman for the Mi-Co Parking Meter company.

Smith reported that if a substantial number of merchants sign the petition, they will be presented to city officials. City Manager A. V. Aronson declared that city officials are interested in knowing the attitude of the merchants and the public towards parking meters, but that in any case the council would not act until a study of traffic problems is completed by the city planning commission.

Northern Flour Co. Building Entered, Suspect Children

The Northern Flour and Grain Co., 422 Ludington street, was entered during the night Monday or early Tuesday morning, but a preliminary check has indicated that not much of value was taken.

Entrance into the building apparently was made by youngsters, who sampled the nut meats and fruit juices. Desks were ransacked and a number of cases were opened. The intruders gained entrance through a coal chute.

ANOTHER HEAVY RAIN RECORDED

But Precipitation For Year Below Normal

Rainfall totalling 1.23 inches, the second heavy rain of the month, was recorded in Escanaba Tuesday night and early Wednesday morning, the U. S. Weather Bureau office here has reported.

The rain began at 5:30 p. m. EST, and continued until 3:45 a. m. Precipitation for the month to date is 4.33 inches, compared with normal precipitation for the entire month of 2.13 inches.

Despite the heavy rains of November, total precipitation for the year is still considerably below normal. Total precipitation to date is 21.91 inches, including the heavy rain of Tuesday night. Normal for this same period is 26.89 inches.

At the beginning of November, the precipitation deficiency for the year was 8.20 inches, but this was reduced considerably as a result of the heavy rains this month.

Rainfall of 1.25 inches also was recorded here on Nov. 4-5 and other lighter recordings of rain and snow brought the total to the months to 4.33 inches.

Heroic Ehnerd Hanson Saved Three Lives In Tragic Danforth Fire

Two men are seriously burned. Both are in St. Francis hospital. One of them is Ehnerd Hanson, 60-year-old Danforth farmer and mink rancher, who is the hero of this story.

For if it had not been for his courage in entering his flaming house at Danforth yesterday afternoon the lives of five persons rather than two, would have been lost.

Officers of the sheriff's department, piecing the story together, have not yet determined what caused the fire in which Ehnerd Hanson's twin grandchildren, Roland and Bonnie, four and one-half months old, were burned to death.

The other man in the hospital is Martin Hanson, 86, Ehnerd's father. He suffered burns on the face, head and hands.

Saves Three Lives
Martin Hanson is an invalid and was unable to make his escape from the burning house or to aid in the rescue of his four great-grandchildren who were trapped in the fire with him.

Ehnerd Hanson saved his father, and two of his grandchildren, Patsy Blixt, five years old, and her three-year-old sister, Mary. The story of the fire, began shortly before 2 p. m. yesterday. Ehnerd Hanson and his son-in-law, Harry Blixt, were busy at the ranch some distance to the rear of the house pelting mink. Mrs. Blixt, the former Mildred Hanson, was in the house with the invalid great-grandfather and the four children. She left the house and went to tell Ehnerd that it was nearly 2 o'clock, because he wanted to leave for Escanaba at that hour.

House in Flames
Mrs. Blixt walked to the mink pens about 1,000 feet distant from the house and reminded her father of the time. She then went to the fur house to do some work.

Ehnerd started for the house. There may have been an explosion. Some people said they heard one. Whatever happened, the house burst into flames.

Running into the house Ehnerd entered a downstairs bedroom and dragged his father outside. Without hesitating, although the interior of the house was now a mass of seething flames, Ehnerd went in again. This time he had to climb through the inferno to an upstairs bedroom where he found Mary and Patsy. He took each by an arm and hurried them to safety.

Two Were Doomed
Two other children, the twins, were still in the house and by the time Ehnerd had recovered his breath his son-in-law, Harry Blixt, came running from the feed house at the mink ranch. The flames had gained such headway that neither Ehnerd, already badly burned, nor Blixt, dared enter. Within a few minutes the two-story house collapsed.

The bodies of the twins, who had been sleeping in another downstairs bedroom, were recovered about two hours after the fire started.

What had caused the fire has not been determined. Deputy Sheriff Clarence Johnson and Coroner Kevill Murphy say it may have been an explosion of the furnace or a bottled gas cooking stove.

Funeral For Twins
The house was destroyed but because of the direction of the wind other buildings at the Hanson place were spared. The Escanaba fire department was summoned and then left when danger of the fire's spreading had passed. Volunteers and Deputy Johnson poured water on the embers where the bodies of the tiny fire victims were found, and recovered them.

Oldest child in the Blixt family, Rockford, was in school at the time of the tragedy.

Funeral services for the twins, Bonnie Marie and Ronald Martin, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday at the Anderson funeral home. Rev. Karl J. Hammar of Central Methodist church will conduct the rites. Burial will be in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

The bodies of the infants will be in state in closed caskets at 9:30 a. m. The twins were born at St. Francis hospital June 28. Surviving, in addition to the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Blixt, are two sisters, Patricia and Mary, and one brother, Rockford; their grandmother, Mrs. John Carlson, of Escanaba; grandfather, Ehnerd Hanson, Danforth; and great grandfather, Martin Hanson, also of Danforth.

Both the Dominican Republic and Spain claim to have the remains of Christopher Columbus buried within their borders.

It's Your Fight, Too!

Bing Crowley was "beefing" the other day about all that Our Town's doing in the way of sending food and clothes to Europe. Bing felt that those struggling democracies should look after themselves.

But most agreed with Judge Cunningham who said: "So long as any family or individual in Europe is helping hold the line for freedom—against the forces of intolerance—it's common sense, and common decency, to help 'em."

Because that's everybody's fight: To see that individual freedom is preserved in every aspect, big or little—whether it's the right to vote, or the right to enjoy a temperate glass of beer or ale with friends.

And from where I sit, no liberty's too small to overlook. Because the minute one small freedom is threatened, all the others are in jeopardy—just as the minute one small country loses freedom, all its neighbors are in danger!

The Kiss Of Death

THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE of the Progressive party met in Chicago Sunday to formulate plans for asserting its demands upon the next congress.

An examination of the Progressive platform reveals conclusively why Henry Wallace, the party's nominee, drew only a million votes in the general election. The Progressives favor "reopening of negotiations with the Soviet Union," apparently on terms demanded by the Russians. They also want repeal of the draft act, termination of aid to China, full rent control on all housing, a rollback of prices, federal appropriations for 4,000,000 low rent houses, income tax exemptions of $4,000 for families of four, a federal veterans bonus, national health insurance, $100 a month pensions for all persons at age 60 and 90 per cent farm price parity support.

The Progressives simply are shooting for the moon. They promise less taxes but more government services. The program completely lacks realism because it is predicated upon the contradiction that we can have our cake and eat it, too.

And yet, the party conceivably may have drawn several times as many votes as it did get in the general election except for one thing, the public recognition of the fact that the Progressives have been taken over lock, stock and barrel by the Communists. That was indicated beyond any reasonable doubt at the Progressive convention last summer and as the political campaign wore on, the Communists held on Henry Wallace and his backers became more pronounced.

Wallace probably still doesn't realize it, but his friends, the Communists, have given the kiss of death to his political ambitions.

Your Chance Of Fire Loss

THIS YEAR, according to the president of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, fire will enter one of every 100 American homes. In those homes, it will kill thousands of people, at least 2,400 of them children. And it will leave a ghastly toll of ruin and waste behind it.

If you happen to be one of the lucky ones whose home escapes fire, you may think it's no problem of yours. You'll be dead wrong. The burden of paying for fire falls on all of us. A fire which destroys a great forest or a producing factory makes every American poorer, in loss of taxes, jobs, purchasing power, and national resources. Fire is the enemy of employment, production and a high standard of living for the people.

Every American, as a result, has a direct and personal interest in fire prevention. His life and his home and his business are at stake. And so, going beyond purely personal considerations, is the economic health and prosperity of the community and the country. The billions that go up in smoke and flame are lost to us forever and so are the lives of those who are burned to death.

Soon we will be in a new year. It can be a year in which loss of life and property by fire is cut to a fraction of past totals. Or it can be a year in which, because of our carelessness and indifference, destruction rages on. It is up to us to make the choice.

Learning By Example

THE NEW YORK TIMES recently carried a dispatch from London which has a deep significance. It said, at the beginning: "Great Britain has undertaken to curtail expenditures on social-improvement and betterment projects when such outlays interfere with her ability to become independent of dollar aid. By this decision Britain has demonstrated in a concrete way, for the first time, that she recognizes that her need to pay her way internationally must take precedence, if necessary, over some of the Socialist Party's favorite programs."

Implicit in this is the fact that socialism, no matter how honestly administered and well intentioned, is essentially non-productive, and simply tends to create more and more deficits even as it saps the vitality of a nation. Britain has socialized or is planning to socialize all her basic industrial resources—the utilities, banking, railroads, coal, and so on. At the same time she has come pretty close to socializing labor too—workers in vital industry are no longer free agents, and can change employment only by government permit. The result has been a decline in production in many cases, a failure to reach announced goals in other cases, and widespread dissatisfaction on the part of labor which was promised benefits it has not received and which, in instance after instance, is much worse off than in the days of private enterprise.

The European Bureau of the American Federation of Labor has published, in its news-letter, a very interesting critique of British industry. Both management and labor, according to this finding, have braked production through restrictive practices. As an example, the policy has been to reduce worked output to the level of the least efficient performer. And that, too, is a major barrier to Britain's solvency, and to raising the present low living standards of her people.

Thus, example after example piles up of the inefficiency of socialism—whether it be the mild variety that exists in England, or the tough, police-state brand that exists in Eastern Europe. The poorest-paid, poorest-fed, and poorest-housed peoples live in the nations where the state has gone farthest in seizing and socializing industry, in regimenting the population, and in destroying free labor.

If we Americans can learn anything by observation, we will learn that only a free enterprise system, where private capital carries on the business and government keeps within the basic province of governing, can produce the most benefits for the most people—and keep our liberties intact at the same time.

Outright Repeal, But—

THE ACTION of the AFL council in demanding outright repeal of the Taft-Hartley act is not surprising in view of organized labor's consistently bitter attitude towards the labor law. However, it should be noted that even the AFL does not want to go back to the lapsed Wagner labor act in its entirety.

The American Federation of Labor favors at least four of the provisions of the Taft-Hartley act and has suggested that these be incorporated in a new labor law. The AFL favors measures to deal with national emergency strikes, the requirement that union officers sign non-Communist affidavits in order to use the facilities of the National Labor Relations Board, the requirement that unions submit financial reports to be eligible to use the NLRB, and protection of the employer's rights for free speech, denied to them under the old Wagner act.

Particularly significant is the AFL's endorsement of the non-Communist feature of the Taft-Hartley act. That has been one of the most controversial provisions of the act and one which the CIO especially has been fighting determinedly. It is a good bet that the new congress will keep this clause in any new labor law that may be written.

THOMAS INDICTED

(Grand Rapids Press)

Rep. J. Parnell Thomas has been indicted on charges that he accepted kickbacks from persons he placed on congressional payrolls and that he put other there who did no work and turned over their pay checks to him. Thomas professedly stood ready to testify in his own behalf before the grand jury a few weeks ago, he since has refused on the ground that it might incriminate him.

The truth of the charges has yet to be established. In this country that means that Thomas must be considered innocent until he is proved guilty. But that public sympathy is definitely against him hardly is to be questioned. This is the man who, as a member and chairman of the house committee on un-American affairs, so often has used the roughhouse technique to cow witnesses or accused appearing before him; the man who frequently has started out on the premise that the accused was guilty and that it was up to the latter to prove otherwise.

The irony of Thomas' position now can scarcely escape anyone, least of all the man himself. He has taken refuge in a principle he has been all too willing to deny recourse to on the part of others. And in refusing to testify, of course, he has encouraged the belief, however unjustified it might be, that there is substance to the grand jury's charges. In themselves those charges are almost as bad as any that might be brought against a person in public life. But they are hardly more injurious to the myth Thomas has woven around himself than the spectacle of his saying to the grand jury and newsmen, "No comment today."

Ira Gershwin, famous writer of song lyrics, and brother of the late George Gershwin, writes from Beverly Hills:

"In a recent column you state, 'There may be no rhyming word for idea.' Better run (don't walk) to the nearest store and buy a copy of Clement Wood's 'Poets' Handbook,' or his 'Unabridged Rhyming Dictionary.'"

Four years ago I worked on the musical film, 'Where Do We Go From Here?' (Twentieth Century Fox). There was a sequence about Columbus and the discovery of America. We wrote a song called 'The Nina, The Pinta, The Santa Maria' (the music was by Kurt Weill). Here are some of the rhymes: You fellows don't get the idea. . . The Nina, the Pinta, the Santa Maria. . . A land that the world's panacea. At Belmont Park and Hialeah."

Answer:

I get the idea.
And now I can see a
Mistake which I'm glad to confess.
We've seen, spiraea,
And Cavallieria,
And dozens of others, no less.

From George F. Miller, Washington, D. C.:

"Since you are an important influence in the improvement of our language, perhaps and will help in changing the awkward form 'and/or' to the sensible single word 'and/or.' In my new book, 'Absentee Voting and Suffrage Laws,' I use 'and/or' throughout. What do you think of the point?"

Answer: It has merit. Now let us see if people will adopt it.

Many Senators Are Reactionary

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—Since the revolt of Nov. 2, a great deal has been written about the Republicans who are not going back to Washington. But nothing has been said about those who will return, like Mary's Little Lamb, bringing their records behind them.

This is not the Old Guard. In the Senate, particularly, those who will be coming back—chiefly because they were fortunate enough not to have been up for reelection—were swept in by the Republican high tide of 1946.

The voters in '46 were dissatisfied with a number of things. They decided it was time for a change and they returned a Republican Congress, but the incoming Republicans, or far too many of them, took this as a mandate to turn the clock back to the William McKinley era.

That was not at all what a majority of the voters had in mind. The Republican diehards carried in on the '46 tide were a greater handicap to Governor Dewey, in my opinion, than the Old Guard. They seemed determined to prove in the 80th Congress that the GOP had forgotten nothing and learned nothing.

FOR SPECIAL INTERESTS

The lesson was especially pointed in the west. A new crop of Senators came in from Nevada, Utah, Washington, Montana and they promptly proceeded to vote against all the things dear to the west.

New Republicans such as Senators Harry P. Cain of Washington and Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin fought public housing. They represented not the people, but the housing and real estate lobbies.

By comparison, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, the majority leader, appeared to be a flaming liberal. Taft fought hard for his housing bill and got it through the Senate in spite of the obstructionist tactics of the younger-Republicans. It was blocked in the House of Strategists for the lobbies that were determined it should not pass.

The most conspicuous example in the group of Republican two-year olds is Senator George W. Malone of Nevada. Malone's record is not only completely reactionary on the domestic side, but on foreign policy he showed himself an old-fashioned isolationist. He voted to cut down the Republican recovery appropriation and he was against extending the reciprocal trade agreements except for one year.

In the same class is another of the 1946 crop—Senator James Kem of Missouri. Kem's record and his point of view are Early Silurian. By his standards, Dewey was a dangerous radical. The record of Senator Zales N. Ecton of Montana is nearly as bad. So is that of Senator William E. Jenner of Indiana, who was elected for short terms in 1944 and returned in '46. Judged by the outcome on Nov. 2 Sen. Arthur W. Watkins of Utah was for the most part voting against the interests of the majority in his region and in the nation.

Quite understandably, the voters took these men as a sample of what Republicanism might mean if applied across the board. When President Truman hammered away at the record of the 80 Congress, he did so against the background of the voters not of the Old Guard, but of the newcomers supposedly representing the best and bravest in the party.

SEN. COOPER DEFEATED

The sad thing is that at least one newcomer, whose record is excellent on both the domestic and foreign policy, went down under the weight of his party. That is Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky. Truman carried Kentucky by a plurality of 123,328, compared to 84,000 for Roosevelt in 1944, while Cooper lost to Virgil Chapman by only 21,285.

It is hard to see how, by hindsight, what Dewey might have done to overcome this handicap. As the bandwagon psychology grew, oddly assorted characters jumped on for the victory ride—men such as William C. Bullitt and Jesse Jones, who seemed to represent nothing but the past and a verdict vindictive toward everyone connected with the past. In retrospect, the handicap appears to have been an old man of the sea would have bowed down a far more vigorous and forthright presidential candidate.

Looking at the returns state by state, you cannot escape the conclusion that most of the Senators swept in on the '46 tide would have been defeated if they had come up this year. In a sense, then, they will be lame ducks.

Progressive Republicans in the Senate, conspicuously Senator Aiken of Vermont, have indicated that they mean to make over the leadership and the direction of their party. But what they will do with these holdovers from the past is hard to see. It is possible, however, that lame ducks can read the election returns.

From James W. Beckman, Cincinnati: "We have the word photogenic which designates suitability for being photographed. I should like to propose a new word for people who look especially good when being televised. How do you like the word 'telegenic'?"

Answer: Not bad. Another possibility is "videogenic," since video is now a well-established word meaning television. (Video is Latin for "I see.") Videogenic may be pronounced: VID-ee-on-JEN-ik.

Another reader suggests phonogenic to designate a voice that is especially well suited for recordings.

Do you think it is wrong to say GRAD-joo-ate, PIK-cher, etc.? Mr. Colby's leaflet, C-18, explains why these pronunciations are correct. For a copy, send 5c in coin, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to him, care of Escanaba Daily Press, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

End of the Trial

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

PITCHBLLENDE—Last summer while on a vacation trip along the lonely Lake Superior shoreline north of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, we parked the car on King's Highway No. 17 and searched the shore for agates. Agates are comparatively valueless, but pretty.

Had we, but known, we might have turned our attention to the nearby outcroppings of granite. For later last summer prospectors discovered in those rocks a shiny vein of pitchblende ore, reportedly rich in uranium. Pitchblende will bring up to $30,000 to ton—higher than the price of coal under the beneficent John L. Lewis.

GUILTLESS—The only satisfaction we have in not discovering the pitchblende, a source of uranium, is that we will be guiltless in the event the ore is used to manufacture atomic bombs to drop on the family of someone else in another part of the world. Agates may not have much value, but they are pretty to look at and they harm no one. Pitchblende is black and not particularly beautiful, even when streaked with the pale yellow of uranium oxide.

And so we pattered along the gravelly shore, looking for agates, and conscious always of the heavy pounding of Lake Superior's waves. Unless you stepped back occasionally the waves would wash up and swish cold water up to your knees. Seagulls circled along the bleak shore and the sun was bright. There was no need to think of uranium wealth, atomic energy, or much of anything except finding an agate.

THE AREA—Between Batchewana Bay and Montreal River there are only a few houses, a couple resorts. It is a wild country and many people might call it desolate. The rocks rise precipitously toward bold headlands, flattened out on an occasional pebbly beach. King's Highway No. 17 winds in and out, sometimes skirting the shore and more often finding better grades inland.

You can drive mile after mile without meeting another car or seeing a pedestrian along the dusty road. Where the view affords you can look out upon Lake Superior, lonely yet restless, beautiful yet cold and unfriendly.

In many places the rocks are barren of vegetation. They make you conscious of the fact that these rocks are among the oldest of any exposed on the face of the globe. They are timeless, eternal—and they contain an ore that will generate a power earth-shaking in its application.

ALONA BAY—King's Highway No. 17 between Pancake Bay and Alona Bay traverses an area owned by several mining companies—old companies that may now be out of existence for no mining operations were visible anywhere. At Alona Bay, only a few miles from Montreal River and the end of the trail, the location is owned by the Quebec & Lake Superior Mining association. It was here and at Theano Point to the north of Alona Bay that pitchblende was discovered.

Alona Bay is an abandoned mining location. The old camp buildings stand deserted, their log walls crumbling, the paneless windows looking out across the agitated deep blue of the bay. Many years ago men searched and found copper and traces of gold but the mining venture was not successful. Now another strike has been made—discovery of a mineral so important that it may change the course of history.

ITS IMPORTANCE—For here is being found the raw material for atomic bombs for war and a limitless source of energy for the projects of peace. What is to be done with nuclear energy? It can, almost overnight, speed man onward to undreamed abundance; or it can destroy humanity with an effectiveness greater than the madness of an Attila or a Hitler.

OF THIS YEAR—As early as 1844 geologists had reported finding pitchblende in the eroded cliffs in the Alona Bay area. The spot was never definitely known and, besides, it made no difference. Of what use was pitchblende and uranium?

Today thousands of persons are in the area that last summer was practically deserted. Claims are being staked out as rapidly as possible. The old camps at Alona Bay are repaired and occupied. Trucks carrying supplies roar north to the scene of the "big strike" and prospectors continue to explore the rocky terrain. The best equipped carry Geiger counters with them—a device that clicks its tattoo in the presence of the radio-active material.

On this continent, at last, man may have discovered an unlimited quantity of uranium. With it will come opportunities limited only by man's intelligence and his conscience.

New York, (AP)—President Truman is finding no shortage of volunteer carpenters in his task of building his 1949 cabinet.

Everybody is lumbering up with a new idea. If all who have been suggested for a place were included, the cabinet would have to have more posts than a fence around Texas.

Just in fun, Editor and Publisher, magazine of the press, nominated a formidable cabinet composed entirely of newspapermen.

And Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Producers Association, more seriously advanced the thought that America's top labor leaders should be chosen for key diplomatic jobs abroad.

This idea is fascinating. If it is carried out, my nominee for ambassador to England is John L. Lewis. His $50,000 salary and $25,000 expense account give him the necessary financial background.

And what an impressive figure old John would make at the Court of St. James—with his florid Shakespearean oratory, his ponderous, eloquent eyebrows. In knee breeches and silk hose he would be unforgettable. The labor government of England would have to sit up and listen to a man who won a $100 a month pension for American coal miners.

Perhaps it is time we widened the whole base on which government leaders are appointed—and include men and women from all classes. It is an essence of the Democratic belief that people grow with responsibility.

Just for a starter, I have compiled a tentative list of appointees which is being forwarded to Key West by the next passenger pigeon that flies this way. Here it is:

For secretary of agriculture—Milton Berle, who has run the price of corn up to the highest peak in history. Or Fred Allen, who gets about as much for chaff.

Secretary of labor—Tommy Manville, who makes work out of play.

Secretary of the interior—Sherman Billingsley of the Stork Club, who has made a career out of satisfying the inner man.

Secretary of the treasury—Bernard Baruch, because in crowded Washington his fondness for a park bench would save office space. Alternate choice: Jack Benny, who spends a dime finger by finger.

Secretary of defense—Greta Garbo. She keeps her barriers high.

Attorney-General—Some good bartender. He'll never drop a case.

Postmaster-general—Lana Turner. Everybody would love to play postoffice with her.

Secretary of state—Barbara Hutton. As chief of foreign affairs, she'd have the experience to keep us out of entangling alliances.

And for U. S. representative of the United Nations, nobody but that arch diplomat of the dismod—Leo Derocher. When ever Vishinsky rose to voice his perennial charge that the U. S. is trying to build an empire, Leo would have his answer ready:

"Who wants an empire? Not us. No empire was ever any good."

With a team like that America could never strike out.

This (United States) is the best country in which to live long, but one of the worst in which to grow old.—George Lawton, New York psychologist.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Maine's senator-elect, Margaret Chase Smith, is a most attractive lady, though not given to flirtation. However, leaders of the Maine Republican machine have been flirting like mad with the first woman elected on her own to the U. S. Senate.

What they want is to get her out of the Senate. Apparently, Old Guardsman Owen Brewster doesn't relish the companionship of an alert and progressive lady colleague in the Senate.

Maine G. O. P. leaders made their first pass before the election. After first clearing it with Albany, they offered Senator Smith a seat in Dewey's cabinet. The deal was that she would be replaced in the Senate by her machine-backed opponent, who lost out in the primaries—Gov. Horace Hildreth.

Mrs. Smith's reply: She was flattered, but the people of Maine elected her to the Senate—not the cabinet.

The old guard next sounded her out on another deal. If she would boost Hildreth for a federal appointment, they promised to arrange with Sen. Wallace White—who is retiring anyway—to retire before January. Then Governor Hildreth would appoint Mrs. Smith to the vacancy, thus giving her seniority over the newly elected Senators for committee assignments.

But Maine's new woman Senator would make no deals of any kind—either before she entered the Senate or later.

—KKK COMPLAINS—

Grand Dragon Green of the Ku Klux Klan is still worried about leaks from inside his organization.

Speaking at Klavern No. 1, Atlanta, Ga., the week after elections, the Grand Dragon wrung his hands and once again cautioned klansmen to be careful about leaks.

"I have to talk frankly in these meetings," he said, "but I might as well call Drew Pearson before I come to the meeting and give him the information. For next day he gives it out to everybody from coast to coast. The AP and UP are both calling me about it next morning while I am eating breakfast."

The Grand Dragon went on to say that sometimes he thought some of the men he had been relying on were talking too much to their friends, and that confidential information had leaked out that way.

"I have given out false information to people under suspicion, thinking maybe I would hear Drew Pearson mention it on the radio," confessed the Grand Dragon. "Then I would know I had the right man."

However, this strategy failed. So he put special markings on printed literature to suspected members, thinking that it would get into print. However, this failed also.

In conclusion, he said, he just didn't know what to do about leaks from supposedly confidential klans meetings.

Klansman Ransom then criticized Pearson for telling his radio listeners that Ellis Arnall, former governor of Georgia and a bitter enemy of the klans, might be the new secretary of the army in the Truman cabinet.

—BIG CROSS-BURNING—

The Grand Dragon spoke about plans for a big cross-burning to be held in Macon, Ga., on Dec. 10. It would be the biggest in klans history, he said, and he expected 10,000 klansmen to be there—in their robes.

"We are going to initiate people from all over the country like we did at Stone Mountain," he reported.

Grand Dragon Green produced a letter from a colored woman asking the klans to help run another colored woman out of town. This drew a big laugh. Dr. Green said that of course they weren't going to do anything about that.

He added that the Kavalier Klub—the klans' whipping and flogging department—was now on the job and had plenty of friends on the Atlanta police force.

—ARROGANT STEEL TYCOONS—

With everyone crying for steel, the tycoons of that industry have grown so arrogant they now treat Uncle Sam like a nagging customer.

As long as Congress threatened mandatory controls over steel, the steel magnates put on their best Sunday-school manners. They made patriotic promises to keep the government supplied with its basic steel needs, but pleaded, almost on their hands and knees, to keep it on a voluntary basis. As a result, Congress passed a law giving the steel industry voluntary allocations. To implement this, the leading producers formed an advisory committee under the commerce department to pass on allocations for the industry.

Once free of the threat of enforced controls, however, the steel executives got off their knees, climbed on their high horse, and rode roughshod over government officials.

For example, when acting Secretary of the Interior Girard Davidson pleaded with the industry for more steel for oil barges, storage tanks, and pipelines, the steel tycoons laughed in his face. They even vetoed extra steel for a vitally needed pipeline to the atomic energy plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Steel tycoons were so rude in turning Davidson down that one top executive felt provoked to apologize.

"It is my feeling," he wrote to Davidson afterward, "that, regardless of the steel industry's attitude toward the requirements of the petroleum industry, you were not afforded proper courteous consideration in the last meeting, and as a member of that committee, I offer my personal apologies."

Fifty other steel men were also present, but no one else apologized. In fact, they didn't even bother to answer a follow-up letter from Davidson, repeating in writing his request for more steel—sorely needed in order to assure American homes heat for the winter.

A fly lays about 900,000,000 eggs. And apparently they all hatch.

Pension Plans Bitter Pill For Legion Heads

The old and the new: In this case, uniforms are the issue as World War I Legionnaire Ralph Gregg (left) studies new-styled garb worn by World War II Legionnaire Herb Brown. The Legion's new pension plan may be the issue that will cause a split between young and old vets.

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN

Washington, (NEA)—Many top American Legion officials are unhappy and embarrassed over the expensive veterans pension plans which the recent convention dumped in their laps.

Against their better judgement, however, they are mandated to swing the powerful guns of the Legion lobby behind these plans in an attempt to get them made into law.

What makes the situation particularly bitter pill for Washington Legion officials is the fact that top men of the Veterans of Foreign Wars are frankly admitting that VFW members "raided" the Legion convention and had a hand in getting the pension plans shoved through at Miami.

If passed by Congress the pensions would cost U. S. taxpayers about $2 billion a year at first and within five years might be costing up to $5 billion annually.

One plan would give all World War I veterans the same pensions being given to Spanish-American War vets. That's $43.20 a month at the age of 62 and $90 a month at the age of 65. It also provides pensions for widows and orphans of the vets who were getting pensions.

Another plan would give $50 a month to World War I and World War II vets when they reach the age of 55 and $75 a month when they reach 60. Approximately 1,500,000 first world war men and 2,170,000 last war vets would qualify for this money in 1949. By 1955, it is estimated that a total of 2,500,000 men would be getting the pension. This plan also includes pensions to widows and orphans of the vets.

Since the war, a big faction in the VFW has been working hard to get one of several liberal pension and bonus ideas approved by Congress. But VFW leaders realize they have been unsuccessful because the Legion hasn't joined forces with the VFW to present a united front in behalf of such a costly measure.

More than a year ago it occurred to these avid VFW pension supporters to join various local Legion posts, become active and try to put their ideas across in this manner. A man can be a member of both groups. It is now admitted by both Legion and VFW officials that this group was an important factor in getting the Miami Legion convention to adopt the pension plans during the confusion of one of the meetings.

In addition to opposing pensions for veterans just because they reach a certain age, many key Legionnaires fear that adoption of a general pension plan as a goal of the Legion might create serious internal dissension. And that is just what is happening over it.

Already, many World War II members are saying that the pension idea is just a boondoggle for the World War I boys. The average age of first world war vets is 55. That's the age at which the pension would start under the one plan. There has always been some smouldering resentment among the younger vets in the Legion toward the older ones. But so far there has never been a split between them over an important issue. It is feared that the pension issue may be the one to cause it.

Another big faction in the Legion which is bitterly opposed to giving pensions to veterans just because they grow old is made up of the disabled vets and those who are working to help them. The rehabilitation work of the Legion has been one of its most important functions and the one which has done more than anything else to justify its existence.

Hunters Filling Their Licenses

Munising—Lots of hunters in this area are filling their deer licenses, some are getting deer, and others are getting other "surprises". Matt Pinter, of Munising, brought home a bobcat instead of a buck Monday, and Russell Logue, of East Detroit, shot a coyote Tuesday.

The men who were actually wounded in action or disabled by their service are the veterans who should logically get the most important consideration from the government, some Legion officials claim. All the work to date in their behalf, however, has won an average monthly payment of $56 for 311,000 disabled World War I veterans. The wounded of World War II still suffering a disability of one kind or another now get an average of $41 a month.

The officials who oppose giving all veterans $60 a month just because they live to be 55 think that the Legion should concentrate on helping the men with service connected disabilities first.

AUTOMOTIVE HINT

Sometimes worn bearings in the starting motor cause the armature to rub. This can be ascertained without removing the motor by holding a small piece of iron or steel against the outside of the housing while someone steps on the starter button. If the gauge is attracted to the housing, the armature is rubbing.

MEET THE

Star Performer for '49!

You're invited to drive the New Hudson—the car that's nimble and rugged beyond anything you've known before!

"The modern design for '49"

HUDSON FLOORS are recessed down within the frame (as shown above), seats are lowered, so you get more than ample head room in this car with the new lower center of gravity.

YOU RIDE DOWN within a base frame (as shown above), and rear seats are positioned ahead of the rear wheels so that full body width becomes available for wonderfully roomy seats. Box-section steel girders completely encircle and protect the passenger compartment.

TRY AUTOMATIC GEAR SHIFTING in forward speeds as provided by Hudson's Drive-Master transmission—by far the easiest of all ways to drive. You can accelerate as long and as fast as you like in pick-up gear, then lift your toe momentarily, and you're in high. The shift into high comes only when you are ready! Button control on the instrument panel provides instant change to conventional driving if ever desired. Drive-Master transmission is optional on all New Hudsons at small extra cost.

COAL PRODUCES SYNTHETIC OIL

Million Barrels Daily Expected

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., (SS)—Synthetic oil from coal, to the tune of 1,000,000 barrels daily, was given as the objective of a program outlined to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers here by J. D. Doherty of the U. S. Bureau of Mines. The cost of production, he said, should be approximately 12.5 cents per gallon.

Describing work in research and development already under way by the Bureau of Mines and others in the production of synthetic oil, he called attention to the need for prompt erection of at least some commercial plants because synthetic liquid fuels are not going to do us much good in an emergency if we have to start from scratch.

A completely new and detailed estimate of the coal reserves of the United States is being made by the U. S. Geological Survey, the engineers were told by Paul Averitt of the Survey staff. It will take 10 years to complete.

The coal fields of the United States are large in all dimensions, he said. They cover roughly 350,000 square miles, or approximately one-ninth of the total area of the nation. The coal-bearing rocks commonly are several thousand feet thick and, as in West Virginia, contain as many as 117 named and correlated coal beds.

Boyer City Hunter Still Spry At 89, In Woods 77 Years
Boyer City, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—Wellington Lyons, who has hunted deer in Michigan for 77 years, isn't claiming he is the oldest hunter in the woods this fall.

But for the benefit of any 80-year-olds who may think they can claim the title, Lyons is a spry 89. A Michigan resident since the age of four, Lyons claims "there isn't a place in the state I haven't hunted."

"Upper Peninsula, Baldwin, Luther, Cheboygan county and the Porcupine Mountain country—I've tried 'em all and I've had pretty good luck, too," says the octogenarian who still walks the legs off many a younger man. Lyons can't remember how many deer he has bagged, but he estimates he has taken 25 since the state began issuing deer licenses.

Main Business Part Of Ontario Copper Town Razed In Fire
Bruce Mines, Ont., Nov. 17 (AP)—Fire wiped out the main business section of this old copper mining town 42 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie early today. The damage was estimated at more than $500,000.

The fire broke out at 6:05 a. m. and two hours later half a dozen business places—including two stone buildings—were destroyed. All that remained standing were brick chimneys.

Buildings across the street were damaged. The cause of the fire was not definitely determined, but it was believed to have been started by sparks from an electric transformer.

Personal Adjutant To Hitler Is Fined
Passau, Germany, Nov. 17 (AP)—Fritz Wiedemann was classified as a former Nazi follower today and was fined 2,000 deutsche marks (about $600). He served as Adolf Hitler's personal adjutant and later as his consul-general in San Francisco.

A German denazification court ranked Wiedemann in the lowest class of Nazis, although he was charged originally as a major offender he was a former German consul in China.

Boy, 13, Tells Court He Was Chained To Bed By His Father

Detroit, Nov. 17 (AP)—A boy's story of mistreatment divided son against father today in a court case.

Declaring "I'm getting big now" and "I can't stand it any more," Carl Russo, 13, went to police to tell of being chained to his bed and beaten.

He said his father, Antonio Russo, 43, had been doing this to him since he was six years old. The last time, Carl said, was on Friday when he came home late from a movie.

The boy, a sixth grade pupil, showed bruises on his body from a rubber hose he said—and Records Judge Christopher E. Stein signed an assault and battery warrant against his father.

The elder Russo, a drug company packer, has four other children. He made no formal statement, pending arraignment.

father had stayed in camp because he had a cold. Late in the afternoon the father went into the woods looking for his son, but missed him, and returned to camp only when he heard the shot.

The accident was investigated by state police, conservation officers and officers of the sheriff's department. They reported the boy told them his father came out of the woods about five or 10 minutes after the shooting.

Mrs. Simpson lived but a few seconds. The bullet from the youth's 30-30 rifle entered her left shoulder and came out the right.

She is survived by her husband, two children, Kathryn Ann, six years old, and Robert John four; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Theisen of Ortonville, Minn.

Military Chiefs Of West Germany Agree On Treaty

Frankfurt, Germany, Nov. 17 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay says he and the two other western military governors have reached "90 per cent agreement" on an occupation statute for western Germany.

The American commander disclosed this last night after a six-hour meeting with Gen. Sir Brian Robertson and Lt. Gen. Pierre Koenig, the British and French military governors.

The statute, generally considered sort of an interim peace treaty with the three western zones, will define the powers of the west German state in relation to the occupation authorities.

Clay told newsmen that several items must go back to the three governments for instructions and when replies are received the military governors "will be able to determine whether we will be able to reach final agreement."

Clay added that the three governors reached many points of agreement on three-power controls which would still be in effect after a west German government is set up.

Mrs. Florence Kahn Former California Congresswoman Dies

San Francisco, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Florence Prag Kahn, first widow to succeed her husband in Congress and a California representative for 12 years, is dead at 80.

In failing health since 1942, the onetime Republican Congresswoman from San Francisco died at her fashionable Huntington hotel apartment last night.

Known for her salty wit and political astuteness, she was elected to the House two months after her husband, Congressman Julius Kahn, died in December, 1924. He had held the post since 1899.

After her first election, Mrs. Kahn continued to hold the seat almost without opposition.

She was a bitter foe of prohibition. J. Edgar Hoover called her "the mother of the federal bureau of investigation" because of her constant battles for money for the FBI.

She was the first woman member of the Military Affairs and Appropriations committees of the House.

Chicagoan Inherits $600,000 In Denmark

Copenhagen, Denmark, Nov. 17 (AP)—Mrs. Heby P. Hansen, 81-year-old recluse who died in her ramshackle apartment here three months ago, left an estate of 3,000,000 kroner ($600,000). It appeared today that a dairy worker in Chicago would inherit the money.

The Danish treasury was about to take over the money when Gunnard Eric Seaberg of Chicago entered a claim, saying he was the only living son of Mrs. Hansen's sister.

In Chicago Seaberg, foreman of a dairy company, said yesterday he has been notified he is the sole appeal of H. V. Evatt, the assembly president, and Trygve Lie, the secretary-general, that the most hopeful approach to a Berlin solution would be to leave it to the security council.

Ready To Negotiate
Secretary of State Marshall, whose reply was checked and cleared with President Truman, said the United States is ready to engage in talks with Russia as soon as the blockade is lifted. He said also the United States looks to the security council for further efforts to solve the issue.

Marshall, in the formal American reply to the Evatt-Lie letter, said the United States had discussed the matter directly with Russia until it became apparent the Berlin blockade was established to gain political objectives to which Russia was not entitled.

"We therefore reserved the question to the security council as a threat to the peace, where it still remains," Marshall replied. "To compromise the principle of the charter that force shall not be used for the attainment of national objectives would endanger the peace of the world," Marshall wrote.

"There is a basic issue in relation to Berlin—that is, whether or not the Soviet government can be permitted to use force, whether by way of blockade or of economic pressures involving currency, credit or trade, or otherwise to deprive the western powers of participation in the administration of Berlin."

Dr. Evatt and secretary-general Lie received the replies from the delegation chiefs without comment. Informed quarters said, however, the two would continue efforts looking for a peaceful solution despite this apparent stone wall.

NEW YORK HAS THE BLUES NOW

It's Business Center Of U. S. No Longer

By ROGER W. BABSON

New York, N. Y.—I am back again in New York City to get the pulse. New York City is no longer the business center of the United States. This has long moved to the "Magic Circle," including the states of Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri. On the other hand, all merchants, manufacturers and bankers—wherever located—still go to New York City to buy their goods and sell their wares.

Whatever the stock market may be doing when you read this column, let me tell you that New York feels bluer today than it has for many years. The people here believe that the Dow-Jones Industrial Average will gradually now decline to 165 or under. This pessimism not only applies to the stock market, but to general business, agriculture and foreign affairs.

The big interests here not only expect no special favors from the second Truman administration but they are convinced that they will actually be persecuted. They claim that the Raw Deal will take the place of the New Deal, and a businessman will again be abused just because he has been industrious, thrifty and successful. So far as I have been able to hear from friends throughout the country, this change in feeling for the worse is found everywhere.

Most readers of this column little realize the powerful government "Corporations," Commissions, Boards and other Organizations which were instituted under the Roosevelt regime. In fact, these semi-official bodies combined actually have more power than Congress itself. As Mr. Roosevelt arranged that the president should have the appointing power to the membership of all these bodies, Mr. Truman now goes into office in his own right with the greatest power, opportunities and responsibilities that any administration has ever possessed.

What About Taxes and Labor?

The budget will need to be greater during the next few years but it is entirely possible that adjustments can be made so that this could be accompanied by tax readjustments. For instance, it is possible that with some relief from the double taxation of dividends, more money would come into the treasury. If such relief comes about, it could help hold up good dividend-paying stocks. There will be no reduction in the capital gains provision but no further excess profits taxes need be necessary unless we get into war.

New York City is no place to make a forecast on the labor situation. Very few people here are willing to take a broad-minded impartial view. My own feeling is that the New Truman Administration will try not to rock the boat one way or the other. It may ask for some correlation between increased wages and increased production. I know that Mr. Truman personally is interested in the "annual wage" idea, emphasizing the importance of "security" to the wageworker rather than "take home pay." However, the Taft-Hartley Act will be repealed or amended.

Frankly, the election of last week here in the United States was much like the surprise election in England two years ago when the Labor Party there came into power. I doubt how long Mr. Marshall will continue as secretary of State. General Marshall is a fine man, but he has never had previous experience negotiating. He has always been in a position where he could give orders and expect to have them obeyed. There will be other important cabinet changes.

The group that I worry about under the New Administration is the small businessman. With all the big pressure groups organized, he will have hard-sledding. His hope lies both in better organization, greater efficiency and harder work. He can hold his own with big business, dictatorial labor and selfish politics only by being willing to employ expert advice and cooperative buying. This especially applies to small independent merchants.

Trenary

Chief Petty Officer and Mrs. Earl Quarfoot and children, Tom and Carol, arrived here Friday evening, to visit at the William Quarfoot home. Mrs. Quarfoot and children will remain at the William Quarfoot home indefinitely, while Mr. Quarfoot will leave next week for the Washington, D. C. Naval school.

Arnold Druckenmiller Jr. of Covington, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Druckenmiller Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Druckenmiller and daughter of Marquette spent the weekend at the Maria Latvala home.

John Greene of Traverse City is spending hunting season at his farm north of town.

Gen. Donovan Suggests Soviet Blockade Plan

BY WILLIAM J. DONOVAN
Written for NEA Service

It is time for the United States to take the initiative away from the Soviet Union, into our own hands, and to impose our initiative on Russia.

Up to now, Russia has held the strategic offensive. We have confined ourselves to a tactical defensive. Soviet tactics have kept us so busy bickering that we have been unable to set up our own strategic objective, which is peace in the world.

I think it is criminal to imagine that the only alternative to obedience to Russia is to plunge into a shooting war. We are inclined to think war means atom bombs, guided missiles, ships, shooting. But, after all, the purpose of war is to break an enemy's will to resist. There are other ways than killing to do that.

For several years Russia has been fighting a bloodless but an effective war against us through subversion, psychology, sanctions, I suggest that we start our own counter-program using economic sanctions and psychological measures to take advantage of the political fissures between Russia and the satellite countries she controls, through minorities, against the wills of majorities.

For example: How about inquiring whether we could deny to Russia and her satellites the use of port facilities controlled by Great Britain, France and this country?

How about considering whether the Suez and Panama canals, the Kiel canal, the Dardanelles, should be closed to the Soviet bloc nations?

How about looking into the entire position of strategic materials upon which Russia depends? What are we doing about the 100,000 tons of crude rubber going to Russia every year from Singapore by way of Holland?

I do not have enough information to know the effect if we should close canals and ports to the Russians. That would require study, to see how much they use those facilities, and how.

I consider it worth studying because I am convinced that Britain's failure to close the Suez Canal to Italy—which I suggested after several months in Ethiopia during the Italian invasion in 1935-36—was responsible for Italy's victory. That, in turn, encouraged Hitler to carry on a flirtation with Mussolini, to go into the Rhineland with an empty pistol, and ultimately to start World War II.

We ought to check Russian use of the canals. We ought to go behind the flags flying on ships to see whose cargo they actually are carrying.

The Russians concede frankly that one of their major aims is to destroy the effectiveness of the Economic Co-operation Administration program. The ECA is only one weapon against Soviet subversion. It needs to be buttressed with others. But we can't let the Russians destroy that weapon. To do so would play right into the principal aim of the cold war against us.

Throughout Europe is the fear that we will abandon them when it serves our purpose. Soviet propaganda aims at selling that idea, at discrediting our motives, at convincing Europe that ECA will be ineffective.

Russia says to them: "You're playing with America now. But keep in mind that we're going to drive the Americans out of here." That's the whole purpose of the Berlin operation. "And when we do, you'll have to deal with us, and we'll remember what you're doing now."

They have Europe worried. Each nation has its own special problems, but behind the shoulder of every non-Communist government hovers uncertainty, fear that we'll pull out and leave them at Russia's mercy.

Those countries need assurance that we will stand by them—not by putting a big army in Europe but by putting into their hands the tools, arms and equipment they need for self-rehabilitation and self-defense.

In the last two wars we went on the assumption that we went to Europe to help Europe. I say those two wars demonstrated that Europe was our outer bastion, and we had to go there in self-defense.

It is time for us to decide whether western and northern Europe are as vital to us today as we considered South America 125 years ago. If it is, then we should apply to it the same principles that underlie the Monroe Doctrine.

There's nothing of the Lady Bountiful about such an idea. It is a very practical measure to defend ourselves, because the closer we permit Russia to get to us, the farther we let her move us from Russia.

We should supply non-Communist Europe with all those physical and psychological things with which a fight is carried on. Words aren't enough.

For example, the de Gasperi government in Italy is under attack for its co-operation with us. Through the Marshall Plan, we should give that government material answers to its enemies—food, tools, even guns—so that the government can show its people in concrete form the advantage of having us on their side.

We can give those material things in knowledge that we don't have to go on forever, that we need only prime the pumps and then they'll go ahead themselves. We should give them as a practical evidence that we really are backing them. We should commit ourselves so far that they will know it is to our interest to stand by—so far as to ally their fear that we'll quit, and leave them at Russia's mercy.

This isn't a program of war. It's a program of peace. It looks toward giving those who want to resist Russia the psychological, political and economic weapons by which they can help compel Russia to peace. It looks toward making it to Russia's disadvantage to be belligerent, to her advantage to co-operate with the rest of the world toward peace.

Disease Prevented By Penicillin Pill

Washington—Gonorrhea can now be prevented by swallowing a single pill of penicillin within a few hours after exposure. Dr. Harry Eagle of the National Institutes of Health, U. S. Public Health Service, reported here.

This means the virtual conquest of one of the two major venereal diseases. The famous mold remedy has already proved its power to cure cases of gonorrhea. With an easy means of prevention now available, the chain of infection could be broken and the disease may in time be practically wiped out.

Ask the woman who owns a modern lamp how she learned to live with it. She will probably tell you that once the eye gets to a departure from the conservative, the new lamp is not hard to take.

All other furnishings in the room being equal and well-balanced, the inclusion of a modern lamp should not upset the decor. Of course if it is in the extreme and used with ultra-conservative furnishings, it is in bad taste and certainly will not produce a pleasing effect.

A homemaker who wants to take a fling at some modern lamps should start with one, and that one should be a middle-of-the-road creation or on the modern border-line so that it looks perfectly suitable with either period or modern interiors.

If your furniture is traditional, you won't want to indulge in the severe abstract forms. If you are sticking by the modern school in all your furnishings, however, you really can let yourself go and splurge on these seemingly weird designs. When used properly, they are definitely effective.

New modern lamps are being made of natural or black carved oak, pottery with metal trim, and decorated plaster. All of the lamps look durable and handsome. There are few of the spindly editions which marred the debut of modern lamps some years ago.

Plan Religious Education For Jewish Children

Congregation Shaarey Zedek of Detroit, one of the largest Jewish congregations in the country, announces an experiment and service in the field of religious education of Jewish children. Through this new service it is hoped to enable children of families living in places in Michigan where there is no synagogue or Jewish school to receive religious instruction.

Jewish families whose children are not now receiving any training in the faith of their fathers are invited to enroll. There is no fee for the service. Carefully prepared and graded lessons in Jewish religion, history and literature will be sent regularly to the children. The lessons have been prepared for every age level of school children beginning with the first grade. Specific assignments in the material sent will be made. When the series of questions included with each lesson will be answered, the next lesson will be issued. The material is so arranged that parents can guide the children in their studies.

Twice a year in mid-winter and spring, convocations of all who are enrolled in this educational program will be held in Detroit. Thus the children and their parents will meet the staff of instructors. Through this instruction by correspondence it is hoped to reach children residing in outlying sections of the state where there is no Jewish organized community and who are not now receiving any religious training.

Rebbi Morris Adler is the spiritual leader of the congregation. Dr. Leonard Sidlow is chairman of the committee on education that has developed this new educational service.

Application for instruction can be made by writing Congregation Shaarey Zedek, 2900 W. Chicago Boulevard, Detroit, Michigan 6.

Clothes Care Is
Budget StretcherBY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

Looking for ways to pull a snappier appearance out of a small dress budget?

More often than not a girl need look no further than her own clothes closet. If the look of frilly care glows from a freshly pressed suit, immaculately laundered blouses, spit-and-polish shoes, a girl who must appear in the same outfit again and again can shine, no matter what the competition is.

There are simple ways of making clothes glow with a look of care. Hang 'em up when you peel 'em off. Padded hangers wide enough to reach from shoulder seam to shoulder seam are important for preserving the shape of dresses and jackets. If you don't have padded hangers, you can cushion those of wood or wire by upholstering with cotton or felt and wrapping with fabric.

Skirts will almost shed wrinkles on their own, if after they are worn, you suspend them to hangers by their waistbands.

After removing a sweater, brush it, sponge the neckline with a damp cloth and put away in a drawer or covered box. To keep the neckline of a turtle-neck sweater from stretching, push the knitted ribs together after you pull off the garment.

Shoes should not only be brushed, and spruced up with a cleaning fluid or polish, after they are removed, but stuffed as well

American Thanksgiving feasts are bountiful and rich. Lay the table with your finest Irish linens, your loveliest china and glassware, the most beautiful silver. The newest American silver pattern in Melrose, combining the grace of southern hospitality with definitely modern feeling.

If there is a tall silver epergne in the family, pile it with bright yellow and deep gold autumn flowers and bittersweet. Or use any bowl appropriate for these flowers.

A wooden tray or bowl piled with purple eggplant, yellow crookneck squash, green peppers, lemons, carrots and other colorful fruit and vegetables will make a truly harvest centerpiece.

On this gala family festival, have an appetizer course if possible. Here are two suggestions.

Clam Spread
One can minced clams, three 4-ounce packages cream cheese, 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 tablespoon salad dressing, 1 teaspoon paprika, 1 tablespoon hot pepper sauce or tabasco sauce.

Blend salad dressing, cream cheese, paprika, onion juice and pepper or tabasco sauce. Add with shoe trees or paper. Keep your spruced-up footwear away from dust by sheathing each pair with individual shoe bags.

In using an electric range, place saucepans, skillets and other utensils on units that most nearly match their size.

Pretty wool and other fabric stoles have entered the fashion picture. You can make a pretty one at home of bright wool or other material.

NORTHWEST FRUIT CO.
EscanabaGail LaChapell
Is The Bride Of
Irving C. Houle

St. Joseph's church, with tall tapering candles and white mums gracing its altars and white satin bows with sprigs of flowers marking the pews, was the setting this morning for the double ring ceremony at which Gail LaChapell, daughter of Mrs. Bertha LaChapell, 1015 Ludington street, and Fred LaChapell, of Iron River, became the bride of Irving C. Houle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Houle, 1630 Ludington street.

The marriage vows were spoken before Rev. Fr. Patrick McArron, O. F. M., at a 9 o'clock nuptial high mass.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her brother, Glenn, who gave her in marriage, wore a gown of white bengaline with a bateau neckline and dolman sleeves which tapered to points over the wrists. Tiny satin covered buttons accentuated the hip-line of the tunic effect which formed a graceful train over a bouffant skirt. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was caught to a head clip of oriental fashion, made of lilies of the valley and pompons of frosty white braid. As her only jewelry she wore a white rhinestone clip on the point of the right sleeve and matching earrings, the gift of the bridegroom. She carried a regal spray of white mums, pompons and lilies of the valley with garlands of ivy.

Matching Gown

Preceding the bride to the altar was her sister-in-law, Marilyn LaChapell, who wore a matching gown of white bengaline with cap sleeves and tunic which formed a fish tail effect over a bouffant skirt. Fresh white baby mums and lilies of the valley were used in halo effect on her half hat of white bengaline, and her long gloves of the same material formed points over the wrists. She carried a muf of mums, lilies of the valley and trailing ivy.

The gowns and accessories were designed and made by the bride. Donald Houle was his brother's best man and Reynold and Rey-mond Houle ushered the guests to their places.

Mrs. LaChapell attended her daughter's wedding in a two piece black crepe dress with accents of gold in jewelry and shoes and Mrs. Houle chose a black and white print dress, complemented with black accessories. Both mothers had corsages of white baby mums.

The music of the wedding mass was sung by St. Joseph's choir. The offertory solo, Schubert's "Ave Maria", and "Panis Angelicus" were sung by Earl Owen. Miss Eva Cossette played the traditional bridal processional and recessional.

A wedding breakfast for immediate members of the families was served at 11 o'clock in the Marine Room of the House of Ludington. Tiny white doves, mounted on a gold wedding ring held the dainty lily-of-the-valley trimmed place cards. Centering the table was the pillared wedding cake and tall white tapers. A colonial bouquet of white mums topped the cake and tucked between the layers were sprigs of mums and huckleberry. A reception for 100 guests, also in the Marine Room, was held from 2 to 4 o'clock. Background music during the reception was played by Bill Clark.

Home In Iron Mountain

The couple, after a wedding trip to an unannounced destination, will live at 617 West B street in Iron Mountain. For traveling the bride chose a black faille with a white shag topper, and a black feathered half hat, white gloves and a corsage of white baby mums completed her ensemble.

The bride is a graduate of Escanaba high school. Mr. Houle, a graduate of St. Joseph's high school, served with the armed forces for two years, and now is employed by Kimberly-Clark at Niagara, Wis.

Guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Glenn D. LaChapell of Battle Creek, Donald Houle of Chelsea, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Paul of Iron Mountain and Misses Valerie and Phyllis Spade and Pat Revard of Milwaukee.

A scarf worn with a fur coat will keep it from wearing at the collar line.

Holland-Finlan

At a ceremony performed Saturday afternoon, November 13, at 2:30 o'clock in Gladstone, Miss Elaine T. Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Holland, Route One, Escanaba, became the bride of Stanley Finlan, son of Patrick Finlan sr.

Attending the couple were the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Thorbjornsen.

The bride wore a royal blue crepe dress with black accessories and her flowers were a corsage of red roses. Mrs. Thorbjornsen wore aqua crepe with black accessories and a pink rose corsage. The bride's mother wore a print dress and a shoulder bouquet of yellow and bronze pompons.

A reception at the bride's home followed the ceremony. Centering the bridal table was the tiered wedding cake with its tiny bride and bridegroom and at either end were autumn flowers and yellow and green tapers.

The couple will live in Escanaba at 221 North 12th street. The bride, an Escanaba high school graduate, has been employed in the office of Dr. R. H. Banks. Mr. Finlan, who is a carpenter, is employed by Al Brandt.

EVERYONE in the village of Heldenberger, Germany, turned out as the hour of the wedding of Kathrine Arnold and Cpl. Arthur John Kniskern of Rapid River, neared. In the background may be seen the picturesque homes of the German community and in the right foreground is the home of the bride.

THE BRIDE, who had participated in a state ceremony in the morning, is shown here as she was about to enter the church for the processional. With her are her bridesmaids, her cousin, Erna Arnold, and Elli Neuman.

A HAPPY FAMILY group is pictured at the reception held in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Arnold, the bride's parents. The two little boys in the foreground are war orphans the Arnolds have taken in to their home and the little girl with the long dark curls is Rita Hohnen, who was train bearer at the church wedding.

Village Rites Colorful As Rapid River Boy Weds German Fraulein

Rapid River — In a ceremony performed October 23 in the village of Heldenberger, Germany, Corporal Arthur John Kniskern of Rapid River, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Kniskern, claimed as his bride, Kathrine Eleanore Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Arnold of Newyasse 13, Heldenberger.

The religious ceremony at St. Mary's church at 3 p. m. at which Father J. Guimbach officiated, was preceded by the state ceremony which took place in the morning and was followed by a reception for a large number of relatives and friends at the bride's home.

Members of the bridal party were Erna Arnold, a cousin of the bride, and Elli Neuman, who were bridesmaids, Rita Hohnen, train-bearer, Joseph Arnold, who was best man, and Frans Neuman, groomsmen.

For the state ceremony the bride wore a yellow evening gown and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. For the church ceremony she wore the gown of ivory brocade satin which the bridegroom's mother bought in Escanaba and sent to her, and a veil which she made herself, edged with fine hand-made lace and trimmed with lace bows. She carried white chrysanthemums.

Her bridal aides wore light blue evening gowns and carried white carnations, and the little train bearer also was in blue.

Your "Telephone World" Is Getting Bigger Every Day

Your telephone is such a reliable instrument that perhaps you never stop to think how it increases in value to you day after day.

It becomes more valuable, more useful, because we are constantly adding more telephones to the system. That makes it possible for you to call more persons, do more telephone errands.

It may be a friend you haven't talked to in years, a relative who lives a great distance away . . . a professional or business man you want to reach in a hurry. Whatever the reason, your telephone is always ready to serve you better—in a wider and wider field.

Can you think of many other things that grow in value every day?

Mustard Gas Used To Fight Cancer

Tampa, Fla. (P)—Scientists are using a form of wartime mustard gas in fighting cancer.

Dr. Lloyd F. Craver, assistant professor of clinical medicine at Johns Hopkins medical school, said nitrogen mustard injections offer relief in many cases, but should be used with great caution.

"After all, it is a war gas, a war poison," he said, "and care is required that treatment aimed at poisoning diseased tissue does not also damage good tissue."

Dr. Craver spoke at the closing session of the annual three-day Southeastern Cancer Seminar. He pointed out that nitrogen mustard is valuable chiefly for relief in incurable cases rather than as a cure.

It helps in many cases of Leukemia and similar forms of cancer, Dr. Craver said. A better treatment, he advised, is by x-ray, which helps more cases with less danger.

He said most laymen did not realize that Leukemia, the disease which eats away the red cells in the blood, is a cancer.

It is easily diagnosed, but "there is no method of treatment today that seems to offer hope of cure," he said.

FEWER DEER
BEING KILLED

Poaching Activity Is Given As Cause

Hunters, according to early season reports from this area, are meeting with poor success. The number of deer killed, if those found on passing cars may be used as a basis for opinion, is small. Whether the pre-season activity of poachers has had any bearing on the situation, conservation men are unable to state.

Weather for hunting has been nearly ideal although lack of snow has hampered those who depend on tracking to get their quarry.

The rash of pre-season game violations has kept up with the record of previous years. Judge W. G. Stephens found it necessary to hold special evening session Monday night to accommodate those who wished to plead guilty and have their cases disposed of with a minimum of trouble.

There were nine cases disposed of at that time, seven of which were violations of a statute forbidding transportation of guns in a car five days prior to the opening of a deer hunting season. Two of these arrests were made by Conservation Officer James Walker in Inwood township; five in Seney township by Officer Leslie Wahlstrand and one in Manistique township by Officer Ernest Derwin.

Both of the arrests by Walker and four of the arrests by Wahlstrand were on gun transportation charges and involved down state men. The other arrest by Wahlstrand had to do with improper tagging of a deer and the arrest in Manistique township was of a youth who shot a wild goose with a high power rifle instead of a shot gun.

The gun transportation statute, which has been the cause of numerous arrests throughout the state, is explained in the Michigan Game Law Digest as follows: (1) "unlawful to possess rifle larger than 22 caliber, or shotgun with buckshot, slug load, or cut shell in deer area during five days preceding opening of season for the taking of deer with firearms, except for transporting arms to hunting camps by persons possessing proper hunting license."

This statute, Ernest Derwin, chief conservation officer in this area, states, was passed to eliminate a practice that has been altogether prevalent—that of having a gun handy when a deer happens to put in an appearance. Hunters on their way to camp are not molested, but those who already have disposed of all of their camp equipment, but still keep the gun in the car are the ones who run afoul of the law.

Every effort should be made by men who have worn the uniform in either World War I or II to be present and assist at the burial rites of Sgt. Merence J. Michaels who lost his life while serving with the armed forces in France. It is a debt of honor every ex-serviceman owes to his comrade. There has been altogether too much niggling in this matter of late. The services begin at 8 o'clock in St. Francis de Sales Catholic church. Vets should call at the Legion cottage at that hour.

Missouri's Coach Sold On Split-T

Columbia, Mo., Nov. 17 (AP)—Don Faurot is sold on the idea that the split-T attack—his own brainchild—is one of football's most powerful offensive formations.

Faurot, head coach at Missouri since 1935, is getting fine cooperation from Coaches Charles (Bud) Wilkinson of Oklahoma and Jim Tatum of Maryland, his assistants at Iowa Pre-Flight school in 1943 in proving his point.

All three split-T squads are among the nation's top ten college teams both in total offense (rushing and passing) and rushing alone.

In total offense, Oklahoma is sixth with an average of 381.4 yards for eight games. Missouri is ninth with 373.3, and Maryland tenth, 369.3.

Oklahoma ranks fourth in rushing yardage, averaging 296.5 yards; Maryland seventh, 277, and Missouri tenth, 258.

Faurot developed the split-T in his Big Seven (then Big Six) conference championship team at Missouri in 1941 and led the nation in rushing offense. He won the title again the next season. Faurot led, won the crown with it for Missouri in 1945.

Faurot was head coach of the Navy's Iowa Preflight Seahawks when they set a national rushing record of approximately 324 yards per game—since broken by Army.

Simple And Adjustable
"The split-T is flexible," Faurot explained. "It adjusts itself to meet the various defenses a team throws against you."

It's a comparatively simple system, too.
There is no large variety of plays," Faurot said. "The boys have less to memorize and can concentrate on learning a few plays better."

The primary difference in Faurot's split-T and the Chicago Bears' T, used by many teams, and the regular T is that the line spreads more, thereby loosening up the defensive foreward and making blocking a bit easier.

The split-T quarterback moves directly to the right or left, either handing off the ball or keeping it. Pitch-outs are especially effective. In the regular T the quarterback frequently backs up to pass.

There's no delay, few traps, and little faking.

Faurot can't go along with the theory of some coaches in this area that the split-T is a poor forward passing formation—the main reason some give for not switching to it.

Columbus, O., Nov. 17 (AP)—The capital of the sovereign state of Ohio is going into its annual Michigan game either—this time with extra zip.

The tom-toms are beating—with fervor if not conviction—"beat Michigan, beat Michigan," all along high street from the campus through downtown.

All it means is that the Ohio State University Buckeyes beat the Michigan Wolverines—generally regarded as the nation's No. 1 team—this Saturday. The Buckeyes go into the game with the odds against them. Pools around town are spotting the Buckeyes 14 points.

Coach Wesley Fesler himself, who brought the Buckeyes up from nowhere last season to a telescope shot at the Rose Bowl, says that on paper, the Buckeyes "don't even belong on the same field with them."

"But," Fesler told a homecoming banquet last night, "there is something more to the game and that is attitude. Our team has that. No one can convince me that our boys don't have a chance."

So, the Buckeyes await the game with the idea that if Truman could do it, why can't they?

Pleanty of Fanfare
Possibly 85,000 people will see whether they can in the big Ohio stadium with its official capacity of 76,677. Both Mutual and NBC networks are going to carry the full game to other thousands from coast to coast.

Meanwhile the city and Ohio are working themselves up. There'll be a parade and enough fanfare between Friday and game-time to daze a Roman emperor.

The team itself is taking it easy. Not resting on its laurels for winning all but two of its games so far this year, but not taking any chances on anybody being hurt before the game.

What the game seems to boil down to is that the western conference's best passing squad comes to town to meet the second best pass defense team.

In five conference games the two teams have played three common opponents, Northwestern, Illinois and Indiana. Michigan all has played Minnesota and Purdue and Ohio State has played Iowa and Wisconsin.

The Wolverines, paced by Charlie Ortmann, have averaged 158 yards a game on passes.

The Buckeye defense has yielded only 56.6 yards a game on position passes, or six yards more than Northwestern.

By JOHN F. MAYHEW

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 17 (AP)—Incense should be high on both sides of the line Saturday when the unbeaten Michigan Wolverines face the grizzled Buckeyes of Ohio State in the season-ended at Columbus, Ohio.

But don't overlook the incentive that will be pushing the seniors in the last game of their collegiate careers.

Each squad will lose nearly a dozen men. But for Ohio that means but four outstanding grid-men—halfbacks Alex Verdova and Mike Cannavino, guards Ray Dipierro and Capt. Dave Tempe-

Out to make their Michigan swan song a melodious one are enough top-notchers to head a team of their own—center Dan Dworsky, tackles Joe Soboleski and Ralph Kohl, guards Stu Wilkins, Quentin Sickles, and Capt. Dom Tomasi and ends Dick Rifenburg, Ed McNeill and Don Hershberger.

In the backfield the clash is the last for quarterback Pete Elliott and halfback Gene Derricotte. Among the men who love football, hanging up the suit is a tear-some thing, a thing best done on an honorable note.

And Michigan's graduating eleven will be busting their buttons to hang up the Wolverines 23rd consecutive win along with their suits.

The chances are Michigan will reach a peak for the season Saturday.

A serious note prevails. Yesterday work was continued on the defenses.

An emphasis, if any, is being placed on the air protection which has not matched Michigan's fine ground defenses this season.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, Nov. 17 (AP)—Four members of the Ivy league, which is dead set against lending a hand to commercial, charitable or chamber of commerce promoters in putting on football "bowl" games, will send wires to Palm Beach, Fla., for a mid-winter regatta next Dec. 31. . . . Princeton, Yale, Cornell and Pennsylvania will participate. . . . This eliminating the stigma of commercialism, or because Palm Beach has a higher social rating than Miami, New Orleans, Pasadena, etc. . . . But those reasons don't exactly jibe with the fact that Ivy league basketball teams will be junketing to all corners of the country this winter. . . . This dept. is hereby opening a campaign to send Princeton, a good November team, to one of the better bowl games.

We think they would give almost any good team a rattle and put an end to the deplorable tendency to brush off Eastern football as minor league stuff.

ALUMNI DAY

Penn State was leading Penn 7-0 when State's little Elwood Petchel tossed a pass that almost was intercepted. . . . A loud-voiced fan, who had been riding Coach Bob Higgins all day, bellows toss it, Higgins, throw the game away; throw it away, Higgins. . . . Just then another pass clicked for a second Penn State touchdown. . . . Pausing only to get a lungful of air, the alumnus (it must have been one) went right on: "That's it Higgins, pass 'em to death."

Chili Cochrane, Indiana U. backfield coach, had just acquired a house in Bloomington. . . . He was leaving reluctantly for the regular Sunday evening conference with Head Coach Clyde Smith when some friends dropped in with the makings of a house-warming dinner. . . . Cochrane phoned the boss to explain. . . . "If you've still got that many friends after the last five games, by all means stay with them," said Smith.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Red Smith, New York Herald Tribune: "Fewer touchdown passes might have the intensely desirable effect of restoring the terminal 'G' to written English. There wouldn't be so many Slingin' Sams, Pitchin' Peters and Chuckin' Charleys runnin' around and throwin' scorin' passes and clutterin' up the sportin' pages and lousin' up our Sunday mornin' readin'."

END OF THE LINE

Since he was fired as Phillies manager, Ben Chapman's bowling average has dropped from 188 last winter to 175 this year. . . . Pete Kmetovic, 23-year-old coach at San Bernardino Valley college, has two players a year older than he is. . . . Mac Kinsbrunner, one-time St. John's U. "Wonder Five" basketball player and now part owner of the Atlantis hotel in Miami, is starting his 25th year as a basketball player with the Miami Beach Y. M. H. A. . . . Paul Walker, football Giants end, is sales representative for a New York electrical firm in his spare time. . . . Let's hope he's having better luck catching customers than catching passes.

against Jimmy Bivins, a fellow he once regarded as the logical contender for his crown.

Five years ago a meeting between Louis and the Cleveland negro might have produced plenty of fireworks in the ring, but the setting is different now. Tonight's bout is a six-round no-decision affair with pillowlike 12-ounce gloves instead of the regulation eight.

The only way Bivins can win is by a knockout or a technical knockout—and on the basis of Bivins' recent record that prospect is considerably less than likely.

Bivins' handlers report he has been training faithfully for this bout because he realizes it's a last ditch effort to regain his former standing among the heavies.

Louis says if Bivins does well enough tonight he might give him a shot for the title in New York next June.

Tonight's exhibition is Louis' first since Nov. 9. The previous night he received a scraped upper left eye-lid in a four-rounder with Johnny Sklor.

The following night at New Haven, Joe protected the puffed eye as he toyed with Bernie Reynolds. Upon advice of his physician, he cancelled an exhibition at Lewiston, Me., last Thursday to give the wound a chance to heal.

Some figures: Louis is 34; Bivins 28; Louis will weigh about 220; Bivins about 185.

Ousted Tiger Boss May Take Job With San Diego Padres

Cleveland, Nov. 17 (AP)—Steve O'Neill, ousted Detroit manager, has been mentioned as a possibility to take over the managerial post of the San Diego Padres of the Triple AAA Pacific Coast league.

The Cleveland Indians announced last night that they have signed a working agreement with the Padres after negotiating with two other PCL clubs—Hollywood and Sacramento.

Not long ago, the Indians said they might offer a job to O'Neill, former Cleveland player, if the right one turned up.

The ex-Tiger pilot said he won't know about any job with the Indians at least until the minor league meeting in Minneapolis next month.

Another possible choice who has been mentioned is Joe Vosmik, onetime Indian, who has had great success at Tucson and Dayton, both Indian farm clubs.

Babe's Last Homer Marked by Plaque

Philadelphia, Nov. 17 (AP)—The last major league home run hit by Babe Ruth has been memorialized by a plaque at the Pittsburgh Pirates' Forbes Field.

The plaque, erected yesterday, bears the following inscription: "Babe Ruth (1895-1948) hit the last home run of his career while playing with the Boston Braves versus the Pittsburgh Pirates on Saturday, May 25, 1935, at Forbes Field."

"The home run, 714th of Ruth's career, cleared the right field stands at this point."

Grid Prognosticator Sticks To Michigan

By JERRY LISKA

Chicago, Nov. 17 (AP)—The last bounce of the crystal ball: (we had one miss for the past three Saturdays)

Michigan 18, Ohio State 12—we like those battering Buckeyes, but the undefeated Wolverines know what to do under pressure. They pass with precision and perfection. Ohio State doesn't have defenders who can keep an eye on Dick Rifenburg, Chuck Ortmann, Leo Koceski, etc., etc.

The stadium should echo when Joe Whisler starts hitting the likes of Dan Dworsky, Dick Kempthorn and Al Wistert. This will be a better game than the 'betting gentry suspects.

Northwestern 20, Illinois 7—Notre Dame did nothing to hurt Northwestern's equilibrium and the Wildcats have enough health left to whoop it up for a Rose Bowl killing. It could be a real battle for a while, but Illinois' best weapon is the forward pass and Northwestern has perhaps the Big Nine's best defense against aerials.

Minnesota 21, Wisconsin 13—The Gophers, still with a foot in the Rose Bowl door, got scared enough at Iowa to keep their guard up against the Badgers. Billy Bye was in old-time form against the Hawkeyes and should make the difference at Madison no matter what the conversation between the grand-stand and the Gopher bench.

Indiana 7, Purdue 7—We haven't called a tie yet this season. This looks like a good spot in a battle between two well-thumped Big Nine entries. Purdue's Harry Szulborski and Indiana's George Taliaferro ought to keep it interesting.

Iowa 18, Boston U 6—Those Hawkeyes were tough and stubborn all season—ask Notre Dame and Minnesota, Boston will get an unpleasant taste of Big Nine brand of football.

Michigan State 28, Washington State 12—Here go the sturdy Spartans for another conquest of a West Coast team.

Marquette 35, South Dakota 6—At last, a solid vote for the Hilltoppers.

Cleaning off the board: Nov. 27—Notre Dame over Washington, Michigan State over Santa Clara and Marquette over Arizona. Dec. 4—Notre Dame over Southern California.

RUNS RED BLOCKADE

Bren (AP)—The Swiss Red Cross has just brought a train through the Russian blockade from Berlin with 451 German children.

Most of the German children are now discovering for the first time what a square meal is. They will live for three months with Swiss families, who have volunteered to care for them, and then return to Berlin to make room for another group.

Five hundred children were returned to Berlin on the train which has just arrived here and now are watching the great Allied Air Lift supply their home city for the first time.

HEW TO PARTY LINE

Prague (AP)—Cows which have failed to deliver their quota of milk under Czechoslovakia's two-year plan are going to have to undergo inspection, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

It was an indirect way of warning farmers and peasants who haven't been delivering all of their milk to market for sale at controlled prices that the government is ready to step in and keep records on each cow's output. If the cow's owner doesn't deliver the quota, he'll have to answer.

Douglas Once Fought Kelly-Nash Machine

By ALFRED PROWITT

Chicago (NEA)—They must have forgotten that Prof. Paul Douglas always can be counted on for a surprise when they said he couldn't beat Republican Senator Wayland Brooks.

The Democratic Senator-elect has been surprising Illinois ever since he left the quiet cloisters of the University of Chicago, where he was an expert in economics, to engage in the noisy game of politics.

He fought the Kelly-Nash machine while it was supporting him. A Quaker, he defied the principles of his church to go into bloody combat with the Japs.

Denounced by Republicans as a former Socialist with present pro-Communist leanings, he has been one of the severest critics of the Kremlin.

One gets the definite impression that if Russia insists on having it, Douglas is ready to grab a rifle.

Physically, he can take it. He stands 6 feet 3 and weighs 210 pounds—a formidable figure he developed as a college football player, a lumberman, farmer and fisherman in his youth.

Douglas is 56, and looks younger. Years never have worried him. When 50, he enlisted as a private in the U. S. Marines. He survived several Jap inflicted wounds and emerged a lieutenant colonel.

Add a plentiful thatch of gray hair, sprawling in a pompadour, gold-rimmed spectacles and a serious way of talking, and you have a pretty fair picture.

The pro-Communist accusation brings a weary look to his face. He has the expression of a professor whose students have fumbled the meaning of a term.

"I believe the Russians are faithless and treacherous," he says bluntly. "I am in favor of holding the Berlin line at all costs."

Douglas was "very disappointed" that Senator Brooks would not accept his challenge for a series of debates during the campaign.

With no Brooks to share a platform, Douglas did what he called the next best thing. He debated before audiences with an empty chair that he addressed as "The Senator."

Douglas favors a strong fight against inflation, but does not call for a return of the OPA.

He also proposes a break-down of monopolies, not necessarily in a trust-busting way, but through a "diffusion of industry." He says some labor unions have become powerful to the point of evil. But he counters with the charge that monopolies are similarly culpable.

Housing, with federal funds to subsidize private interests, is another of his big planks.

Douglas is forthright in speech, a trait he may have acquired from New England ancestry. He was born at Salem, Mass., of a family that had fought in the Revolutionary War on the right side.

Young Douglas worked his way through Bowdoin College, picked up more degrees at Columbia University, then taught economics at the University of Illinois and several other schools.

During World War I, he served the government as an industrial relations expert with the Emergency Fleet Corp. Then he came to the University of Chicago.

"I got into politics by accident," Douglas relates. "I'd never planned such a career. Everything started when I began to look into the machinations of Samuel Insull."

Then Douglas and other independents tried to elect an alderman against the tough Kelly-Nash machine. In 1939, the liberals put their finger on Douglas to make the race.

That was when Mayor Edward

Prof. Paul Douglas. His opponent was an empty chair.

J. Kelly offered the support of the machine Douglas was fighting. Douglas accepted with the understanding that "every vote I cast in council is a vote of conscience."

Douglas was elected. In 1942, he ran for the Democratic nomination for U. S. Senate but lost to Raymond S. McKeeough.

The war came and Douglas promptly enlisted despite the Quaker ban on warfare.

Tommy Bell Bests Milwaukee Fighter

Toledo, Ohio, Nov. 17 (AP)—Tommy Bell, Youngstown challenger for Ray Robinson's welterweight title, outpointed Cecil Hudson, Milwaukee, in ten rounds last night.

Bell, 146, overcame a weight disadvantage of 12 pounds. He finished fast for a unanimous decision. Both men were marked up at the final bell.

Floyd Felder, 152, Flint, Mich., outpointed Bobby Roberts, 157, Cleveland, in four rounds.

Sports Mirror

Today a year ago—Cleveland Browns clinched the Western division championship in the All-America conference.

Three years ago—Cleveland Rams took over first place in the National Football League's Western race.

Ten years ago—Cornell turned down a bid to play Santa Clara in football at Los Angeles on New Year's day.

RADIO POLSKIE

Warsaw (AP)—The government-controlled "Radio Polskie" plans to build a powerful short-wave transmitter center in Warsaw. It has ordered a 100 kilowatt transmitter from Czechoslovakia.

"Radio Polskie" said its broadcasting power would be further increased by another 100 kilowatt stations and three 50 kilowatt stations. It intends to make its voice heard not only in the Soviet Union, and all of Europe, but also in the United States.

His private's pay was a strain on family finances as it was to many others. Douglas is not a man of means.

His wife, talented daughter of the late celebrated sculptor, Lorado Taft, gave up their home and moved into a single room with their daughter, Jean.

Mrs. Douglas ran for Congress while her husband was at war, and served as a Representative from Illinois in the 79th Congress. It's no surprise to her that the professor will serve in the 81st.

RUARK RUNS INTO SCOOP

Finds Mother Of Strip Teaser Doing Act

By ROBERT C. RUARK
New Orleans—Although I am a shy fellow, given to blushing at the sight of a well-turned instep, I always seem to get sidetracked on a street called Bourbon when I come to New Orleans. And Bourbon St. is the spiritual and physical home of the strip tease, which has been scourged from less sinful cities than this.

Ordinarily I would say that the flexible art of peeling has been overwritten, but I think I have come up with what the movies call a "scoop." I have just encountered mother-love of such high-octane potency that mama is now shedding her garments as a substitute for daughter—daughter having fled to matrimony and pregnancy as an antidote to fame. "Ah just can't get used to undressin' in front of people," says Ma, whose name is Josephine Spellman and whose daughter, Stormy, is possibly the most famous stripper ever to bare a goose-pimple on a street where naked ladies come eight to the bar. "Took three people to run me up on the stage when the time come to undress."

Stormy's mother is billed as "Stormy's mother." That is explanation enough because Stormy is the doll who became nationally famous when the entire campus of Louisiana State University conspired to throw her in the university lake. People came from far and wide to see Stormy, a disdainful looking lollipop who sneered at the customers. When Stormy hung up her G-string, to marry a chit-chat columnist and tackle motherhood, a great gap was left in New Orleans' elite nightlife.

But mother, although she had been a demure cashier to that time, leaped bravely into the breach. It seemed a charitable deed to give the clamoring customers Stormy's mama, if Stormy herself was unavailable.

Stormy's mama comes from Atlanta, Ga., and she is very decorous.

"An never bump frontways," Stormy's mama modestly tells me. "An always bump sideways."

A bump, for the uninitiated, is a kind of convulsion in which the mid-section is hurled sharply at the audience, to the accompaniment of strident thumping of a drum. It is the climax of a truly dramatic performance. A sideways bump would involve a sudden shifting of hips, as in an impassioned rumba, and would be deemed as refined.

Stormy's mama never divests herself of what the trade calls "the tooner."

"The tooner," she says, "is the fringe or whatever. Under the tooner comes the nets. You can see through the nets, but not quite. I never get down to the nets. I always keep on the tooner."

Stormy's mama is 40, she says, and her daughter is 23. They marry early in the south. Stormy's mama has a nice shape, very much like daughter's and the same sort of haughty face. Her soft drawl comes oddly from a sharply contoured, starkly coiffured head.

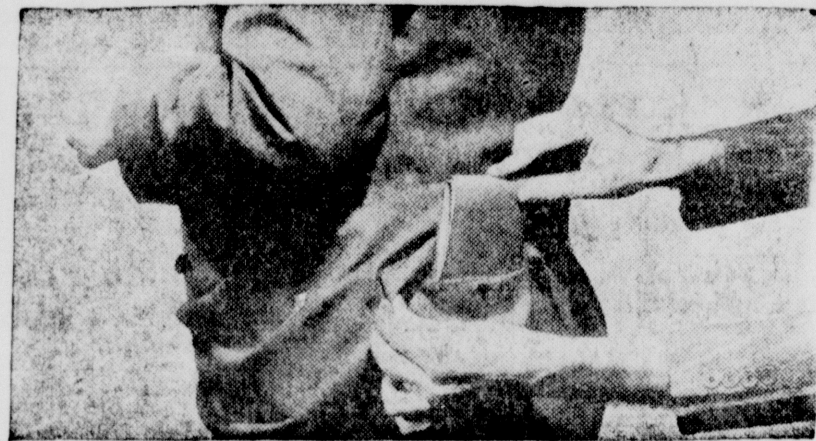

"This is still very new to a girl who never believed in taking off clothes in public," she says. "Whenever ah recognize anybody in the audience ah can't hardly stand it."

"But," she says, with an air of desperation, "Ah've gone so far now ah can't quit until ah make Life magazine. Then ah aim to re-tire."

Stormy, it might said, once commanded a big spread in life, apart from vast coverage by the national press. Like daughter, like mother.

Woman President Of Addison Bank Is Taken by Death

Addison, Mich. (AP)—Miss Flaude Cleveland, 67, who started out shining shoes and became one of the few women bank presidents in the country, died at Addison hospital Friday.

Left motherless at 3, Miss Cleveland sold papers and shined shoes. She became the first licensed woman barber in Michigan at 14, and 13 years later went to work at the bank.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Addison United church.

Miss Cleveland had been ill for a year.
